Arrival

... by car or by bus

Nuremberg and Fürth are conveniently situated at the junction of important federal autobahns. The autobahns A3 Frankfurt-Passau-Vienna and A9 Munich-Berlin intersect in southeast Nuremberg. Both autobahns feed in slightly further south to the A6 Stuttgart-Prague. In the south the A73 also branches off from the A9 near Feucht, leading north through Fürth and Erlangen over the A3 to Bamberg and past Suhl as far as to Erfurt. Moreover, 4 major federal highways lead through the metropolitan area of Nuremberg in all directions.

... by train

The DB main train station in Nuremberg is linked to national and international railway networks by approximately ten IC (Intercity) and ICE (Intercity Express) trains traveling at regular hourly intervals. Fürth can be reached in just a few minutes by subway (U-Bahn), but also by rapid transit (S-Bahn) and regional trains.

Mobility

in the Nuremberg Metropolitan Region

Having arrived in the metropolitan area the sophisticated local transport network of subway (U-Bahn), trams, buses, rapid transit (S-Bahn) and regional trains will guarantee you reach your destination very quickly! Fast and uncomplicated answers to all transport and tourist questions can be found at the Information Centers in Nuremberg: in the main train station, the airport, the Public transport (VAG), in the Tourist Information Offices. www.nuernbergmobil.de

Nuremberg International Airport Albrecht Dürer

Gateway to Northern Bavaria

Close proximity to the city, short stretches to the terminal and the parking garages as well as individual service offers characterize the international Albrecht Dürer Airport Nuremberg.

The subway provides quick connections to the city center–only 12 minutes to the main train station and 25 minutes to the exhibition center.

With 3.4 million passengers (2015), ca. 50 non-stop connections and over 30 connecting flights to nine European hubs with a wide range of worldwide hub-connections, the Nuremberg Airport ranks in the Top 10 of the commercial airports in Germany.

Reputable airlines from the three largest passenger alliances (Star Alliance, Skyteam, Oneworld) offer good off-peak hours connections from the most important European metropolises. For price-sensitive travelers Vueling, Ryanair, Eurowings and Wizz Air offer interesting flight options.

New impulses for tourism in Franconia have also been created by these low-cost airlines and attracted more visitors from other European countries

Northern Bavaria's largest travel market, diverse gastronomy and shopping oppertunities, a conference center as well as a free visitors' terrace provide a totally relaxed airport experience.

Comprehensive information on flights, events and parties as well as a view of the airfield apron can be found via the live webcam under

"Protection and Security under the Symbol of the Castle" – almost every German citizen knows this slogan. It stands for a successful traditional company: the NÜRNBERGER Versicherungsgruppe.

Founded in 1884, the NÜRNBERGER belongs today to the premier league of German insurers. Owing to its independence it can carry out its own business policies oriented towards a long-term increase in value. It thus has the ability to act rapidly and flexibly in the market and position itself such that it can offer each of its clients the best possible solution.

The NÜRNBERGER is committed to the European Metropolitan Region Nuremberg, especially to the city that gave it its name. Through its wide range of sponsoring activities the company supports numerous institutions and events. Albrecht Dürer, Christoph Willibald Gluck and Jean Paul, the great sons of the region, confer upon their homeland an artistic, a musical and literary identity, respectively. This is why the NÜRNBERGER is actively engaged in the Germanisches Nationalmuseum, the International Gluck Opera Festivals and the Jean Paul hiking trail.

Moreover, we have been active for over 30 years in equestrian sports, including the NÜRNBERGER CASTLE CUP. With the NÜRNBERGER Versicherungscup the company brought a WTA Women's Tennis Tournament to the region.

1 Nuremberg Zoo
– Family friendly

Families can spend a wonderful day at the zoo. Children can look at meerkats face-to-face, tropical butterflies hover around the little visitors, and gorillas, giraffes and cheetahs quietly allow themselves to be observed. In the Jako-o Children's Zoo the youngsters can pet sheep and goats and explore a farm with rare indigenous domestic animal breeds. If the signboards on the enclosures do not provide enough information, the zookeepers can also satisfy the young zoo visitors' curiosity. The large playground with a giant slide and a lot of other playground equipment provides enough room to let off steam. Benches with tables to rest and eat a snack are distributed around the entire zoo. The "Little Eagle Adler", a miniature train based on Germany's first train runs from the giraffe enclosure to the Children's Zoo and takes tired children to the exit.

The protection of endangered species in Germany and South America
Today the protection of endangered species and nature is one of the most urgent tasks facing zoos all over the world. Together with Yaku Pacha, an organization founded in the Nuremberg Zoo to protect aquatic mammals of South America, the zoo also supports the protection of threatened dolphin species in countries such as Chile, Brazil and Uruguay. The zoo also participates in more than 30 European "Preservation of Endangered Species Programs" (EEPs) and coordinates the EEPs for manatees and Malayan tapirs. The zoo is also involved with many programs for animal resettlement.

The Imperial Castle was one of the most important fortified imperial palaces of the Holy Roman Empire. For centuries it stood at the center of European history, was a secure military outpost and prestigious accommodation for the emperors. Erected under the Staufers and their successors over older buildings, the extensive castle complex is world famous as the landmark of Nuremberg.

Emperor – Empire – City

The exhibition "Emperor – Empire – City" with a tour through the historic rooms of the imperial castle was redesigned in 2013. In the spectacular new presentation not only the existence and function of the imperial castle are clearly explained and illustrated, but also information on the Holy Roman Empire of the German National and the role of Nuremberg in the late Middle Ages is conveyed to visitors, big and small, in a fascinating and stimulating manner. Valuable objects on loan, impressively staged in their authentic location, enable visitors to experience Nuremberg's Golden Age and the castle's unique history from the Middle Ages to the nineteenth century. The varied tour leads from the Knights' Hall through the Double Chapel up to the upper level of the Palas and from there to the weapons collection of the Germanisches Nationalmuseum in the Imperial Castle Museum.

Double Chapel and Palas

In art historical terms the Romanesque Imperial Chapel is the most important section of the Imperial Castle. It was built around 1200 in conjunction with the Palas. This includes a hall building with two halls lying one above the other as well as a residential wing with several chambers. The Palas and Double Chapel were skillfully adapted to the irregular rock relief.
Characteristic of double chapels are two chapels with an identical ground plan lying one above the other, which can be linked with each other through an opening in the center. The ruler's balcony – a specialty of the Nuremberg Double chapel – allowed the emperor direct access from the upper hall and the imperial chambers of the Palas and at the same time a certain distance from the royal court. A heatable oratory was built for Emperor Charles V in 1520.

Sinwell Tower and Deep Well

The Sinwell Tower – a round tower in the outer bailey visible from a long distance – was a keep, serving both defensive and prestige purposes. Built in the late 13th century, the slender tower received another floor in the 1560s, with an observation platform crowned by a Renaissance spire. The view of the castle and the Old Town supported by photos from the time before and after World War II makes one aware of the relationship between destruction and reconstruction. The Deep Well at the center of the outer bailey was very probably built in its earliest construction phase to provide an autonomous water supply for the castle. Its shaft was driven almost 50 m into the rock below, a depth which can be appreciated by a camera lowered into it during a vivid guided tour.

In the Kemenate, (a building with residential and work rooms heated by fireplaces or later stoves) the Germanisches Nationalmuseum presents the historical role and the changing tasks of the Nuremberg Imperial Castle. Finds from archaeological digging, ornamental architectural elements, models and reconstruction sketches illustrate the history of this important site.
The castle was not only a defensive complex, but also served recreational and research activities. In 1677, for instance, Eimmart built an observatory on the Vestner Gate bastion which became world renowned for its accuracy of measurement. It owed its precision to its astronomical clock, a shining example of contemporary science.

Exhibition

The collection of historical defensive and offensive weapons, such as body armor, firearms and pole weapons, shields and other accessories, demonstrates how the art of warfare changed throughout the centuries. The exhibition includes ceremonial and tournament armor as testimony to the medieval art of the armorer, crossbows used for hunting and sport and inventively shaped pole weapons of the foot soldiers and landsknechts or mercenaries. Firearms began to dominate the battle fields from the 16th century onwards. Historical saddles, stirrups, snaffles (bits for bridles) and spurs make reference to the important role of the horse in terms of military use as well as in tournaments and travelling.

Albrecht Dürer's House presents in a new concept the living and working quarters of one of the most famous painters and graphic artists in art history, namely Albrecht Dürer (1471–1528).

The Building

The massive half-timbered house – built in 1420 – was lived in by Dürer from 1509 to 1528. Here you can view an undestroyed burgher's residence from Nuremberg's Golden Age, which is at the same time one of the few surviving 16th century artist's houses in Northern Europe. It contains reconstructed living areas and kitchens as well as a large workshop with functioning printing equipment. The rooms today convey an authentic atmosphere and reflect the history of the house as the first northern European artist's museum since 1828.

The Dürer Hall

Valuable copies of Dürer paintings are presented in the newly created Dürer Hall. In the Cabinet of Prints and Drawings special exhibitions will display treasures from the large number of holdings in the Historical Art Collection of the Museen der Stadt Nürnberg. And finally, Agnes Dürer, his wife, takes you on special tours personally through the master's house – of course, in the guise of an actress.

5 Tucher Mansion Museum and the Hirsvogel Hall

In the Tucher Mansion, built from 1533–44, the domestic world of a prominent 16th century merchant family comes to life again. The collection, even today still owned by of the Tucher patrician family, displays valuable furniture, tapestries, paintings and precious decorative art works.

The picturesque Renaissance garden invites you to picnic there on Sundays and offers a splendid view of the magnificent Hirsvogel Hall (originally built 1534, destroyed 1945, reconstructed 2000). With the exquisite wall paneling by Peter Flötner and the famous painted ceiling by Georg Pencz, a pupil of Dürer, it ranks as one of Germany's loveliest Renaissance interiors.

Twelve newly created plaster of paris busts of the first Roman emperors – the original Renaissance sculptures have been lost since the post-war period – complete the interior ensemble.

Every Sunday, an actress assumes the role of the former lady of the house, Katharina Tucher, and gives a tour of the mansion and the Hirsvogel Hall and entices you to explore the historical secrets of the Tucher Mansion.

We would be happy to inform you about our room hiring terms for the premises.

6 Documentation Centre Nazi Party Rally Grounds

The National Socialists made Nuremberg the "City of the Nazi Party Rallies".
The north wing of the unfinished Congress Hall on the former Nazi Party Rally Grounds, designed by the National Socialists to accommodate 50,000 people, is now occupied by the Documentation Centre Nazi Party Rally Grounds.

The permanent exhibition "Fascination and Terror" deals with the causes, contexts and consequences of the National Socialist tyranny within an exhibition space of 1,300 m². The focus of the 19 chronologically arranged exhibition areas is the history of the Nazi Party Rallies, which were used by NS propaganda as mass gatherings for staging the "national community".

The exhibition continues outside, with large panels providing supplementary information on the history of each venue along the Nazi Party Rally Grounds, which today still cover approximately 4 km².

Regular special exhibitions are held in the Documentation Centre Nazi Party Rally Grounds.
The Educational Forum offers numerous study programs for school classes and youth groups as well as adult groups, providing in-depth insights into various topics of special interest.

7 Memorium Nuremberg Trials

In the criminal court of the Nuremberg Palace of Justice world history was written: On November 20, 1945 the trial against the "main war criminals" began in the criminal court, "Courtroom 600". 21 leading representatives of the National Socialist regime were made to answer for their crimes against peace and humanity. In October 1946, 11 months later, the sentences were pronounced. From 1946 to 1949 twelve Subsequent Proceedings were held before American military tribunals.

More than 60 years after the trials a permanent exhibition has been opened at the original site to provide relevant information on the background, proceedings and consequences: Explanations are given on the role of the defendants in the National Socialist power structure and the crimes they were accused of. Historic sound and film footage convey a vivid impression of the trials. The significance of the trials for the development of modern international criminal law made "Courtroom 600" world famous.

The "Nuremberg Principles" ensuing from the International Military Tribunal today form the basis for the International Criminal Court in The Hague. They illustrate how attitudes have changed since 1945 / 46 towards those responsible for the fortunes of the world's nations and peoples.

The Communications Museum focuses on people and the way they communicate – from the first cry of the newborn baby to the Web 2.0. The exhibition is divided up into four areas of communication: sound, images and writing as well as communication via the Internet.

Over 400 objects from the telephony exchange to the iPad as well as many media stations make the contents come alive. Interactive elements invite children and adults to communicate, whether in the writing workshop, at the pneumatic postal tubes or as the moderator in a TV studio. In the reconstructed burial chamber of the Ancient Egyptian craftsman Sennedjem the connection between writing and the Cult of the Dead is clearly illustrated.

One of the core themes is in the area of "Network Worlds", where the focus is on communication with digital media. In Web 2.0 we are both users and designers in a networked world without boundaries. The house belongs to the Museum Foundation for Post and Telecommunications sponsored by the Deutscher Post AG and Deutsche Telekom AG.

Changing exhibitions on communications and a diverse program of events from Data-Tuesday to the museum mail coach tour round off our offerings. Adult groups and school classes as well as children's groups can book individual tours for desired dates. All topics and dates under www.mfk-nuernberg.de.

8 DB Railway Museum

New Permanent Exhibition "Charting a Course for the Future"

The years following the Fall of the Wall number among the most eventful periods in German railway history. While extensive reforms led to the railway in Germany becoming a new company, fundamental changes such as the digital revolution, globalization and climate change altered the face of the world and also had far-reaching consequences for the development of the 200-year-old railway transportation system. With the new permanent exhibition, this era has now been given its own domain in the museum. From now on our museum is offering a complete journey through time "from the Adler (Eagle) steam engine to the Inter City Express (ICE)".

The MODELLARIUM

The DB Museum has expanded its permanent exhibition by another attraction: the MODELLARIUM. At the heart of it are the model railroad vehicles from the unique collection of the DB Museum. Trains built to scales of 1:1 to 1:700 with over 1,000 N scale and ca. 60 1:10 models are fascinatingly presented.

The Kid's Trainland (KIBALA) in the DB Museum

The "biggest hit" in KiBaLa is without a doubt the new 5" narrow-gauge railroad. It takes children on an exciting journey through a 1,000 sqm railway playground. The narrow-gauge train even has a railroad station with a genuine train schedule.

9 Toy Museum

Ever since the Middle Ages Nuremberg has been a city of toys. Today, the world-famous Toy Museum with its wealth of exceptional exhibits breathes new life into this great historic tradition over 1,400 m² of exhibition space.

Visitors are greeted by wooden toys on the ground floor. Dolls, exquisite doll's houses and optical gadgetry on the first floor provide an insight into the lifeworld of past centuries.

The worldwide most important collection of Lehmann tin toys is the focus of a museum section depicting the history of the company. A "World of Tinplate" is presented in the second floor. Cars, trains and steam engines are testimony to the outstanding role the Nuremberg toy manufacturer played in the area of technology.

On the top floor those devotees of more recent favorites like Lego, Barbie, Playmobil or Matchbox cars will really enjoy themselves. In an imaginative children's area under trained supervision little visitors can play to their heart's content.

During the summer a large outside play area, the museum café in the secluded inner courtyard and the "realm of shadows" in the cellar vaults are also available.

11 Museum of Industrial Culture

A building built as a screw factory during the 1920s now houses the Museum for Industrial Culture, the Motorcycle Museum "Ardie, Mars & Co." and the School Museum with a historical classroom on 6,000 m² exhibition space.

Here everything revolves around the history of the industrialization of Nuremberg from the 19th century to the structural changes of the present. The work and everyday life in the past come to life along a "museum street". The exhibits, including a "Technology Revue", a fully functioning museum cinema, or the "talking kitchen" turn into actors and visitors become explorers.

Large and small can get to know the museum in entertaining tours by watching the fascinating demonstrations in the historic pencil workshop and can even lend a hand in the lead typesetting printing workshop. In "Math Land" children from 4–8 years of age are playfully introduced to the subject of mathematics.

In the summer the sports camp attracts visitors to try out numerous pieces of sports equipment. In the motorcycle collection the golden age of Nuremberg as a stronghold of bicycle manufacturing comes alive. In the "Fun Learning Lab" (Lern-und Spaßlabor) young visitors can experiment and make hands-on discoveries. Moreover, in 2014 the Learning Lab "Technology Land" will open its doors. Here technical p henomena will be illustrated in a playful fashion.

13 Art Gallery in the ArtCultureQuarter

As an exhibition house for contemporary visual art, photography and a critically reflected analysis of society the Art Gallery has been a fixed component in the Artists' House for over 10 years. With its four exhibitions per year it has established itself as an important platform for current regional, national and international art. The Art Gallery sees itself as a dynamic place in which many-faceted exhibitions and projections can be institutionally developed and in some cases also realized in exhibition cooperations. A lively exchange between those creating art amongst themselves as well as their public is promoted and continually built on and expanded.

14 Gallery of Contemporary Art Nuremberg in the ArtCultureQuarter

The Gallery of Contemporary Art has been located since 1967 near the city wall very close to the main train station in a building which was established as a presentation site for exhibitions as early as 1913. Founded as a house for German and international contemporary art, the Gallery of Contemporary Art Nuremberg is celebrating its 50th anniversary in 2017. The exhibition program of the Gallery of Contemporary Art Nuremberg can react flexibly to current issues and trends and has thus evolved into an important platform for presenting contemporary art. Along with influential individual artistic positions, the focus is also on theme-based group exhibitions as well as seminal art developments since the 1960s.

wbg Nürnberg GmbH

Along with the numerous cultural, historical and shopping opportunities the citizens of Nuremberg associate something else with their city: the excellent quality of life. The wbg Nürnberg GmbH helps contribute to this.

The wbg Nürnberg GmbH, the largest provider of quality real estate in the metropolitan region, manages 20,000 rented properties. It offers various housing concepts for various needs. From housing space for the young family to the senior citizen's apartment.

The group of companies also knows, however, that people's surroundings contribute considerably to their quality of life. The company's motto is "Design Habitats" and it supports cultural institutions such as the museen der stadt nürnberg (the city museums of Nuremberg), thus promoting a holistic sense of well-being in the city. Hence, for example, the wbg Nürnberg GmbH sponsors a welcome gift of a pre-paid admission ticket to the Fembo House City Museum for every new resident of Nuremberg.

16 Faber-Castell Castle, Production and Museum

The "Faber-Castell Experience" includes three interesting visitors' programs at the location in Stein: The Faber-Castell Castle, the production of the wooden pencils and the Museum "Alte Mine".

A tour through the Faber-Castell Castle, which was extensively restored in the last few years, makes the link between an industrial progressive spirit and traditional family values quite tangible. The Art Noveau residence offers beautiful rooms and an interesting insight into their lifestyle at the turn of the century.

The centerpiece of the company, the production of black lead pencils and colored pencils, comes alive in a two-hour tour. Approximately 500,000 wooden pencils are produced here every day. Just how this works – from wooden board to finished pencil – is explained in a lively and fascinating fashion.

With a great love of detail the historical rooms of the lead pencil production were converted into a lively testimony to its industrial heritage. In the Museum "Alte Mine", in the graphite-blackened original historic premises on the banks of the Rednitz River, the visitor gains an insight into the once complicated process of manufacturing lead pencils in the 19th and 20th centuries.

Barrier-Free Nuremberg

Nuremberg and its diverse museum landscape have a lot to offer – for people with disabilities, too. Under the motto "Touch-Feel-Listen", art and culture can be discovered under the guidance of specially trained educators in the museums but also on the streets and squares of the Old Town.

Group programs for the disabled by the KPZ (Art Education Center of the Museums in Nuremberg)
With great commitment and specialized knowledge the KPZ has developed tours, workshops and events for the blind, visually impaired, hard-of-hearing and deaf, for people with so-called mental disabilities as well as wheelchair users of every age group.
More detailed information can found under www.kpz-nuernberg.de

Information for wheelchair users:
A regular tour suitable for wheelchair users takes place every first Sunday in the month at 1.30 pm, starting at the Tourist Information Office on the main market square. (Duration ca. 2 hours.)

City tours for the hearing impaired:
"Speak with your hands" – under this motto trained and qualified city guides using German sign language offer walking tours through the Old Town of Nuremberg in cooperation with the City Association for the Deaf in Nuremberg.

Further information on the museums and attractions, on the gastronomy and hotels can be found under www.barrierefrei nuernberg.de

City tours for the mentally disabled can be booked at the Congress- und Tourismus-Zentrale Nürnberg.

Geschichte Für Alle also offers tours:
The Middle Ages are explained as a first hand experience under the title "That's what it was like at the Imperial Castle…". During the visit there is the opportunity to slip into the dress of a noble woman, to listen to the clip-clop of horses' hooves, to smell the spices used for the famous Nuremberg gingerbread and much much more.

Programs for individual blind and visually impaired visitors:
The Fembo House City Museum offers individual blind and visually impaired visitors and their sighted escorts a very exciting visit to the museum under the motto "He who cannot see may touch". A guidebook, which can also be downloaded in advance from the website museen.nuernberg.de/fembohaus provides information on which objects may be touched and handled in the various rooms, where something may be listened to or experimented with.
A selection of objects in the rooms or showcases that are inaccessible for hands, such as a coat of mail or pots and pans from the old Nuremberg kitchen, have been especially assembled in a suitcase for blind visitors, which is available for the duration of the tour.

41 Jewish Museum of Franconia, Fürth

Why isn't ham kosher? Can women also become rabbis? What is a ritual bath? Why do Jewish families set up sukkahs (branch-covered huts)? And what does the Sabbath smell like?

Visit the Jewish Museum of Franconia in Fürth and learn more about Jewish life in Franconia. From the Middle Ages to the 19th century Jewish communities existed in well over 300 places. The museum itself is found in a formerly Jewish 17th century residence. Magnificent stucco ceilings, a sukkah and a ritual bath, are unique evidence of this period. Precious ritual objects, and impressive everyday objects testify to the rich traditions of Franconia's Jewish culture.

As can be expected of a municipal gallery, the focus is on trends in the contemporary art scene. Since the opening in 2002 almost 100 solo and theme-based group exhibitions have attracted attention far beyond the city limits. Educational work takes place in the form of tours, the senior citizens' circle or the art education program for day care centers and schools. The public-friendly location in the center of Fürth compensates for the modest size of the exhibition space.

PLAYMOBIL "Martin Luther"

In conjunction with the German National Tourist Board and PLAYMOBIL the Nuremberg Convention and Tourist Office developed a Reformation ambassador in mini-format: Martin Luther as a play figure. "Small Luther" in a coat and cap, holding a Bible and a quill, as the ambassador for the Reformation Year 2017, is now already underway.

PLAYMOBIL "Albrecht Dürer"

In 2012 during the Year of Art and the exhibition "The Early Dürer" PLAYMOBIL in cooperation with the Nuremberg Convention and Tourist Office developed the "Small Albrecht Dürer". The figure clothed in a Renaissance outfit is accessorized with a brush, palette, easel and the world-famous self-portrait.

How & Why Minibook – N for Nuremberg

1 Nuremberg Zoo

Take a discovery tour in a unique landscape of the Nuremberg Zoo. Wander through a park set in a forest with spacious animal enclosures, fissured rock formations centuries-old trees, large ponds and sunlit open spaces. Gaze in amazement at the leaping dolphins in the open-air dolphin lagoon or the gently gliding sea cows in the manatee house. Of course, there are many other animals: polar bears, lions, zebras, rhinoceroses.... Altogether the zoo is home to almost 300 species of animals. Enjoy nature in the heart of the city, every day of the year.

Keeping visitors in mind

Along with an impressive animal world, visitors can look forward to a wide range of places to eat. You can also borrow a handcart to carry your own provisions. Visitors who arrive by bus or train pay the reduced admission fee. There are about 2,000 free parking spaces for cars directly at the entrance.

Waldschänke Restaurant in the Zoo

We naturally have organic and MSC certifications and are members of the Biokreis Organic Circle and partners of the Bioland organic farmers' association. We cook nutritional food in every price range and for every religious denomination! Every Saturday evening we work magic with our fine Venetian Nuremberg cuisine and conjure up a feast for our Culinary Theater in the Zoo "species-appropriate", of course! Our rooms have "listed" status, so do we! We can cater for any event! On our own premises or in the Blue Salon.

2 Historic Art Bunker

The Historic Art Bunker – unique in Germany. Air-raid shelter for artworks, the destruction and rebuilding of Nuremberg

Deep down under Castle Hill the most important Nuremberg art treasures survived the many air raids of World War II.

Shortly after the outbreak of the war a unique bunker system was built to protect these artworks from destruction and plundering.

In contrast, however, many historic buildings in the old medieval town suffered severe damage. "The Treasure Chest of the German Nation" had become a city of ruins.

How this city of ruins gradually grew into the present-day Nuremberg – that, too, you will discover in a tour of the bunkers whose basic form has survived.

2 Casemates and Water Supply Conduits

Since 1545 the imposing bastions of the master builder Antonio Fazuni have risen from the dry moat behind the castle – even today a prime example of Renaissance fortification construction in Germany.

From the casemates another set of stairs leads down to the medieval rock-cut cellars containing the water supply conduits. The impressive, once secret water channels were used well into the 20th c.

Within the bastions steep steps lead down into the defense passageways of the Imperial Castle, the casemates with their embrasures for shooting weapons from. From inside the fortification wall one can still look out through a few of these embrasures today and imagine how the Nuremberg militia of the past fired upon their attackers.

2 Historic Rock-Cut-Cellars

An extensive labyrinth of underground passageways and cellar vaults has existed in the bedrock of castle hill for centuries – the Historic Rock-Cut Cellars.

As early as 1380 red beer was stored in the subterranean cellars, sometimes comprising four levels, that had been cut into the Burgsandstein (local Nuremberg sandstone). During the air raids of World War II many citizens found shelter in these historical vaults.

Follow us to the Nuremberg underworld, to a fascinating labyrinth made up of a myriad of vaults and cellars, which were hewn out of the rock centuries ago. In the context of a tour discover this unique subterranean cellar system and learn interesting facts on statutes and laws in the cellars. Learn, too, about the numerous uses in the last 700 years and the craft of producing beer in the Altstadthof brewpub.

Town Hall

3 Town Hall of Nuremberg

The Town Hall is a complex of several construction periods. The oldest section is the 40 m Gothic hall erected between 1332 and 1340, once the largest secular hall construction north of the Alps. The adjacent section built from 1616 to 1622 by Jakob Wolff the Younger was modeled on the Italian palazzos of the High Renaissance. In 1945 the entire complex was destroyed by bombs. Reconstruction 1956 – 1962.

3 Medieval Dungeons

The dungeons are found in the cellar vaults of the Old Town Hall. They were set up in the 14th c. to serve as cells for prisoners awaiting trial or in custody until their execution.

The dungeons can be viewed only during a ca. 30 min. tour. These take place every half hour for groups of 5 or more.

1355 / 58 Emperor Charles IV had the synagogue razed (pogrom 1349) and replaced by the first Gothic three-aisled hall church in Franconia, constructed as an imperial royal chapel.
In 1361 the imperial regalia were displayed to the public for the first time for the christening of his son Wenzel, heir to the throne. The "Männleinlaufen" (mechanical clock and glockenspiel, every day at noon) recalls the proclamation of the Golden Bull of 1356: seven Electors pay homage to Emperor Karl IV sitting on his throne. Richly decorated interior. The Tucher altarpiece (ca. 1445) is considered the most important work of panel painting in the pre-Dürer period.

Nuremberg's oldest city parish church was built ca. 1215 as a three-aisled Late Romanesque pillared basilica with two choirs. As early as 1309 the original side aisles were widened and altered in the Gothic style. Destroyed during World War II like the rest of the city, St. Sebald was reconstructed in 1957 and reconsecrated. The reliquary shrine (ca. 1397) in the tomb cast in bronze by Peter Vischer and his sons (1508 – 1519) is prominently located in the interior of the church. The bones of Nuremberg`s patron saint Sebaldus are presumed to rest in the silver embossed "casket".

The Way of Human Rights

4 The Way of Human Rights

The Way of Human Rights is entered through a stylized triumphal arch from the Kornmarkt and lined by 27, 9-meter-high concrete pillars. Inscribed on each of them and on two ground plaques as well as the integrated cypress oak is an article of the General Declaration of Human Rights in German and another language.

"Obligation to the Past"
The walkthrough work of art flanking the Germanisches Nationalmuseum created by the Israeli artist Dani Karavan not only changed Nuremberg's image but also heightened the entire city's consciousness of its obligation to the past. The Way of Human Rights in Nuremberg uniquely displays the force of momentous ideas.

International Human Rights Award

The award was presented for the first time on September 17, 1995, almost 60 years to the day after the passage of the National Socialist Racial Laws and 50 years after the end of World War II. The biennial award presentation is the culmination of Nuremberg's broadly conceived aim of doing justice to its self-imposed commitment as the "City of Peace and Human Rights".

The Michaelskirche is the oldest edifice in Fürth. The beginnings of this fortified church date back to 1100. As befitted the erstwhile small market town, St. Michael is only a simple, relatively unadorned village church. The tower with the west portal, the choir and the south entrance are from the Gothic period. The interior is 19th c. Neo-Gothic.

18 Market Square "Green Market" with Jugglers Fountain

As Fürth was almost totally destroyed in the Thirty Years' War, the old houses at the Grüner Markt date from the second half of the 17th and from the 18th c.
An attraction at the Grüner Markt is the Jugglers Fountain designed by Harro Frey in 2004 with two groups of figures in various poses.

19 Gustavstraße

Fürth

U1: Rathaus

Gustavstraße was the most important street in the Old Town. Nowadays it is the heart of the pub scene and a popular meeting point, especially in the evening. What is particularly attractive is the Baroque sandstone building of the Grüner Baum Inn, where the Swedish king Gustav Adolf is said to have stayed overnight in 1632. Anyway, it is after him that the street is named.

This is where the Jewish community buried its dead from 1607 to 1906. The graves were created for eternity and these last resting places must not be disturbed. Despite acts of desecration during the Nazi period, the cemetery, which covers 20,000 m^2 and once stood on the edge of town, is to this day one of the most impressive stone testimonies to Jewish life in Fürth. The cemetery is opened only for tours and after inquiry at the Tourist Information Office in Fürth.

27 Schloss Burgfarrnbach

The Neoclassical residence in Burgfarrnbach was erected between 1830 and 1834 by the Royal Bavarian Building Inspector Leonhard Schmidtner, replacing the old, dilapidated moated castle. As it had been built for the families of two counts, Graf Ludwig and Graf Friedrich Pückler-Limburg, it was very long at 70 meters and was one of the largest Neoclassical buildings in southern Germany. The residence belongs to the city of Fürth and is used today as an archive and library. Tours offer unique insights into the history of the local aristocracy and the city. The splendid festive hall with its adjoining rooms can be rented for special events.

Nuremberg Old Town Mini-Train Tours

In 1835 the first German railway started operations with the legendary "Adler" locomotive from Nuremberg to Fürth. Over 150 years later the first motorized train drives through a city charged with history, where time has never stopped.

We start near the "Wishing Ring" on the Beautiful Fountain – directly at the market square with its charming stalls – and drive along the architectonic combinations of old and new. You will see the historic castle, the superb sandstone facades of the surviving city wall with their massive towers, the "Way of Human Rights" as well as other important buildings and monuments.

Relax and enjoy yourselves!

Video Bus Tour Former Nazi Party Rally Grounds

Geschichte Für Alle e.V. (History for Everyone) and Schielein Reisen offer public bus tours on the former Nazi Party Rally Grounds. Unusual insights, historical facts as well as film clips from the period of National Socialism at original locations – Geschichte Für Alle e.V. and Schielein Reisen offer a totally new educational program with moderated and video-supported bus tours on the former Nazi Party Rally Grounds.

Like the walking tours, which Geschichte für Alle e.V. has been carrying out on the grounds now for 30 years, the bus tour demonstrates that the Nazi Party Rallies were a gigantic propaganda show and the flip side of the system of concentration camps. The bus tour also contributes to current discussions on the use of the entire area comprising 11 km^2. During the viewing of the historical locations of the Congress Hall, the Great Road and the Zeppelin Field the function and effect of their architecture, the staging of the events as well as the main features of the National Socialist perception of history are made tangible and comprehensible. Numerous images and film clips specifically underscore the moderator's remarks. The tour starts and ends at the Documentation Centre. The images and films are subtitled for English-speaking participants and English handouts are also provided.

Tours through Backstreets and Courtyards of the Old Town

Despite considerable damage from the war the Old Town of Nuremberg still managed to retain its historical character. We, the Friends of the Old Town of Nuremberg, have made a considerable contribution towards this. In the 40 years of our existence we have rescued over two dozen listed burgher houses from being reduced to ruins and enhanced the cityscape with our countless projects.

During our tours we show you some of these restored houses and other historic pearls, including their courtyards, back buildings and archeological finds. Naturally we also include on request outstanding public buildings, such as the Imperial Castle, the churches and the Town Hall. Take a tour with us and discover the appealing atmosphere of Nuremberg.

Children look at the city with different eyes. For them we offer special children's tours with trained guides.

Are you looking for a somewhat different city tour? Then explore the Old Town with us on a Segway.

Nuremberg Sausages

The genuine Nuremberg grilled sausages have been around for over 700 years. As early as 1313 a law specifies that “only the most valuable part of the pig” may be used for the little sausages seasoned with marjoram, which must be 7 to 9 cm long and weigh 20 to 25 g. Endorsed with the status of Protected Geographical Indication (PGI) today the Nuremberg sausages are ranked along with other important international specialties such as Parma ham or Champagne in the top list of European foods.

The Nuremberg sausages are traditionally grilled in the sausage restaurants over a beechwood fire which lends the sausages an additional aroma. Crispy cooked they taste good whether in the quick version of “Three in a Bun” or as six, eight, ten or 12 pieces served on a pewter plate with mustard or horse radish. Typical side dishes are sauerkraut, potato salad or a slice of coarse rye bread. Along with the grilled variation there are also “soused sausages” cooked in a stock consisting of vinegar, onions, wine and seasonings.

A Nuremberg Original

In 2003 the Nuremberg sausage was the first sausage in Europe to be designated a “Protected Geographical Indication” by the EU. This seal confirms that all sausages declared as “Nuremberg Grilled Sausages” must be manufactured within the city limits of Nuremberg according to a specified recipe.

More curious things, recipes, nice-to-know and interesting facts about the Nuremberg sausage can be found under:

Horseradish from the Metropolitan Region of Nuremberg

Almost everywhere in Germany mustard belongs to sausages, but in Franconia, and especially in the metropolitan region of Nuremberg, Original Nuremberg grilled sausages are enjoyed with horseradish, locally known as "Kren".
Whether you order 6, 8, 10 or even 12 of these delicious small specialties in one of the typical sausage restaurants, horseradish is a must.

Horseradish is grown in the metropolitan region of Nuremberg. At the firm of Schamel, the oldest horseradish brand in the world, the intensely pungent root is grated – with many a tear in our eyes – and exquisitely refined in the most varied ways.

Naturally grilled sausages with horseradish taste best during your visit to Nuremberg, but are equally good at your home abroad during an enjoyable barbecue with friends.

Historical Bratwurstküche

The famous Historical Bratwürstküche "Zum GuldenStern" anno 1419 is the oldest grilled sausage restaurant in the world. Lebkuchen-Schmidt

We cordially welcome you to a very special excursion!

"Our heart is really in it!" The gingerbread factory of Lebkuchen-Schmidt has devoted itself to quality since 1927. Particularly choice ingredients and fine spices determine the excellent taste of gingerbread and cake and cookie specialities.

Lebkuchen-Schmidt offers a special attraction with the "historical baking experience" in Zollhausstraße 30 in Nuremberg. A master baker in traditional medieval costume shows how gingerbread was made in the past. The fantastic aroma of fine spices, freshly baked goods as well as mulled wine is a free extra. Following this, guests can make and buy their selections comfortably in an unhurried fashion.

There are plenty of parking places available for cars and buses! Please book under our information hotline: +49 911 – 89 66 278

Fürth – Enjoy, Relax, Shop

In Fürth, shopping is something special, because quaint little specialty shops still exist here. You'll fi nd them around every corner in Fürth, especially in the Old Town. Everything is displayed with love of detail and enthusiasm – whether it's sweet treats, artistically decorated pottery, jewelry to buy and make yourself, fun fashions from "recycled" materials or local handmade bags. You'll be surprised by the wonderful gourmet shops for whiskey, wine, coffee, cheese, American bagels or Franconian farm sausage. You may not be able to count them all – there are more than 400 small but fine shops in Fürth – but you can enjoy them on a stroll through the town.
