Typical regional specialties

One-of-a-kind gift ideas from creative minds – this tour makes the hearts of those looking for something unique beat faster.

1 We begin the tour with Stefan Lüpkes. In Booth 101, he amazes visitors: Through his delicate and precise craftsmanship, he turns a simple piece of wood, fungus or root into a magical castle. In the twinkling of an eye, a rough piece of timber becomes a fairy-tale palace or an entire kingdom. When you take out the individual pieces, the work of art turns into a miraculous 3D-puzzle.

2 Just opposite is Peter Eberhardt in Booth 93. Here you'll find a diverse assortment of glass objects: From glass globes to animal figures and angels and on to the stars. All the objects, artistic or practical, are completely handmade.

3 Typically Franconian and really creative are the prune men from Julian Scheller. At his Stand 82, located at the crèche, gathers a funny little community. Made from dried prunes, chimney sweeps, gnomes, chefs and firefighters stand row-on-row and fascinate visitors. Julian Scheller is the fifth generation of his family creating these little figures.

4 If you're looking for one-of-a-kind decorations for your tree or window, head for the Sternstunden Stand at Booth 78, just a few steps away. Regional crafters both young and old make all types of Christmas stars for this charitable organization.

5 Nuremberg is known for its old half-timbered houses, including those in the near-by Weissgerbergasse. If you'd like to take one of these beautiful buildings home – in a miniature format of course – you'll find one at Edith Herrmann's Booth 49. She creates half-timbered ceramic houses based on historical originals.

6 Booth 19 will fascinate Mamas and Papas, Grandmas and Grandpas. Here, one finds playful children's fashions "Made in Nuremberg". The clever idea behind it: The colorful pants and dresses are fitted with soft cuffs, waist- and wristbands, so the clothing can "grow" with your baby or toddler and be used for many years. In 2016, Kerstin Brkasic-Bauer won the Entrepreneur of the Year Prize from the IHK Chamber of Commerce for this fantastic idea.

7 A stroll past stands with Christmas decorations, sweets and fruit bread brings the tour to Marco Weihmann at Booth 13. His floral arrangements exude a wonderful scent of Christmas, because he uses not only the classic array of pines and evergreens to create them, but also fruits and spices like cinnamon and oranges.

8 Not very far away is Booth 8 from Rudi Delago. Fans of wood carving are happy here because this South Tyrolean artist learned his craft from an early age. They'll find crèche figures and wooden decorative items – all from his own production in Gröden.

9 The last stop is Hans Steffin-Hierzer at Booth 4. In his atelier, he creates detailed pen-and-ink drawings, which he reproduces in limited-edition art prints, calendars and wonderful greeting cards decorated with stars and other embossing.
