Imperial Castle

The Imperial Castle was one of the most important fortified imperial palaces of the Holy Roman Empire in the Middle Ages. For centuries it stood at the center of European history, was a secure military outpost and prestigious accommodation for the emperors. Erected under the Staufers and their successors over older buildings, the extensive castle complex is world famous as the landmark of Nuremberg.

Emperor – Empire – City
The exhibition “Emperor – Empire – City” with a tour through the historic rooms of the imperial castle was redesigned a few years ago. In the spectacular presentation not only the existence and function of the imperial castle are clearly explained and illustrated, but also information on the Holy Roman Empire of the German Nation and the role of Nuremberg in the late Middle Ages is conveyed to visitors, big and small, in a fascinating and stimulating manner. Valuable objects on loan, impressively staged in their authentic location, enable visitors to experience Nuremberg’s Golden Age and the castle’s unique history from the Middle Ages into the nineteenth century. The varied tour leads from the Knights’ Hall through the Double Chapel up to the upper level of the Palas and from there to the weapons collection of the Germanisches Nationalmuseum in the Imperial Castle Museum.

Double Chapel and Palas
In art historical terms the Romanesque Imperial Chapel is the most important section of the Imperial Castle. It was built around 1200 in conjunction with the Palas. This includes a hall building with two halls lying one above the other as well as a residential wing with several chambers. The Palas and Double Chapel were skillfully adapted to the irregular rock relief. Characteristic of double chapels are two chapels with an identical ground plan lying one above the other, which can be linked with each other through an opening in the center. The ruler’s balcony - a specialty of the Nuremberg Double Chapel - allowed the emperor direct access from the upper hall and the imperial chambers of the Palas and at the same time a certain distance from the royal court. A heated oratory was built for Emperor Charles V in 1520.

Sinwell Tower and Deep Well
The Sinwell Tower – a round tower in the outer bailey visible from a long distance – was a keep, serving both defensive and prestige purposes. Built in the late 13th century, the slender tower received another floor in the 1560s, with an observation platform crowned by a Renaissance spire. The view of the castle and the Old Town supported by photos from the time before and after World War II makes one aware of the relationship between destruction and reconstruction.

The Deep Well at the center of the outer bailey was very probably built in its earliest construction phase to provide an autonomous water supply for the castle. Its shaft was driven almost 50 m into the rock below, a depth which can be appreciated by a camera lowered into it during a vivid guided tour.

14 Imperial Castle Museum

The Imperial Castle Museum, a branch of the Germanisches Nationalmuseum, shows the historical role and the changing tasks of the Nuremberg Imperial Castle. In the earlier residential building excavation finds, ornamental architectural elements, models and reconstruction sketches illustrate the history of this important site. The castle was not only a defensive complex, but also served research activities. In 1677, for instance, Eimmart built an observatory on the Vestner Gate bastion which became world renowned for its accuracy of measurement. It owed its precision to its astronomical clock, a shining example of contemporary science.

Exhibition

The collection of historical defensive and offensive weapons, such as body armor, firearms and pole weapons, shields and other accessories, demonstrates how the art of warfare changed throughout the centuries. The exhibition includes ceremonial and tournament armor as testimony to the medieval art of the armorer, crossbows used for hunting and sport and inventively shaped pole weapons of the foot soldiers and landsknechts or mercenaries. Firearms began to dominate the battlefields from the 16th century onwards. Historical saddles, stirrups, snaffles (bits for bridles) and spurs make reference to the important role of the horse in terms of military use as well as in tournaments and travelling.

17 Albrecht Dürer’s House

Albrecht Dürer’s House located just below the Imperial Castle, presents in a new concept the living and working quarters of one of the most famous painters, graphic artists and theoreticians in art history, namely Albrecht Dürer (1471–1528).

The massive half-timbered house – built in 1420 – was acquired by Dürer in 1509 and here is where he also died in 1528. The building miraculously survived the devastating bombing of the Nuremberg Old Town in 1945 and is thus today one of the few undestroyed burgher’s residences from Nuremberg’s Golden Age, which is at the same time the only surviving late medieval artist’s houses in Northern Europe. Already as of 1828 one of the earliest artist’s memorial sites internationally, the house was remodeled into a museum in 1871 and was extended by an annex in 1971. It contains living rooms and kitchens as well as a large workshop with functioning printing equipment. The rooms today convey an authentic atmosphere and reflect the history of the house.

Valuable copies of Dürer paintings are presented in the modern Dürer Hall. In the Cabinet of Prints and Drawings special exhibitions display treasures from the large number of holdings in the Nuremberg Municipal Museums. In the workshop historical printing techniques are explained and demonstrated. Interactive media stations convey a lively insight into the work and personality, life and times of the great genius.

And finally, “Agnes Dürer”, his wife, played by an actress, takes you on personal tours through the master’s house.

Tucher Mansion Museum and Hirsvogel Hall

In the Tucher Mansion, built from 1533–44, the domestic world of a prominent 16th century merchant family comes to life again. The collection, even today still owned by the Tucher patrician family, displays valuable furniture, tapestries, paintings and precious decorative art works.

The picturesque Renaissance garden invites you to picnic there on Sundays and offers a splendid view of the magnificent Hirsvogel Hall (originally built 1534, destroyed 1945, reconstructed 2000). With the exquisite wall paneling by Peter Flötner and the famous painted ceiling by Georg Pencz, a pupil of Dürer, it ranks as one of Germany’s loveliest Renaissance interiors.

Twelve newly created plaster of paris busts of the first Roman emperors – the original Renaissance sculptures have been lost since the post-war period – complete the interior ensemble.

Every Sunday an actress assumes the role of the former lady of the house, Katharina Tucher, and gives a tour of the mansion and the Hirsvogel Hall and entices you to explore the historical secrets of the Tucher Mansion.

We would be happy to inform you about our room hiring terms for the premises.

City Museum in the Fembo House

The Fembo House is the last still surviving merchant’s and patrician’s residence in Nuremberg from the Renaissance and Baroque period. Erected between 1591 and 1596 by the Dutch silk dealer Philipp van Oyrl at a prominent site between the Town Hall and the Imperial Castle, today it houses the Nuremberg City Museum.

The journey through 1,000 years of city history begins in the 4th upper story in front of a model of the Old Town with a fascinating wealth of detail. Here a light-image-sound installation leads you through a virtual tour of the city influenced by the Gothic and Renaissance in its late medieval consolidation. On the way through the house splendid historical rooms from past epochs come alive: The dancing hall, the Baroque antechamber or the “Beautiful Room” from the Peller House reflect even today the splendor of the patrician residences. Fascinating details of Nuremberg’s “Golden Age”, of the emperors, patricians as well as trade and crafts in the imperial city vividly come alive.

On the ground floor the exhibition hall “A Crown - Power - History” with high-quality copies of the imperial regalia invites you to become familiar with the most important chapters of the city’s history in around 30 minutes – the fastest way to become an expert on Nuremberg! A media guide in nine languages also offers many opportunities to deepen your knowledge of the history behind the vibrant objects: from the first documentary mention of Nuremberg in 1050 up to the present.

Documentation Center Nazi Party Rally Grounds

The National Socialists made Nuremberg the “City of the Nazi Party Rallies”. Even today the gigantic remains on the former Nazi Party Rally Grounds south of Nuremberg testify to the megalomania of the NS regime. The north wing of the unfinished Congress Hall on the former Nazi Party Rally Grounds, designed by the National Socialists to accommodate 50,000 people, is now occupied by the Documentation Center Nazi Party Rally Grounds. The most prominent structure is the 130 m long glass “shaft” which pierces the massive fabric of the building and effectively disturbs the rectangular geometry in the shell of the deliberately unfinished NS building - the Congress Hall itself thus becomes a walkable exhibit.

The permanent exhibition “Fascination and Terror” deals with the causes, contexts and consequences of the National Socialist tyranny within an exhibition space of 1,300 sqm. The focus of the 19 chronologically arranged exhibition areas is the history of the Nazi Party Rallies, which were used by NS propaganda as mass gatherings for staging the “national community”. The exhibition continues outside, with large panels providing supplementary information on the history of each venue along the Nazi Party Rally Grounds, which today still cover approximately 4 sq km.

Regular special exhibitions are held in the Documentation Center. The in-house Educational Forum offers numerous study programs for school classes and youth groups as well as adult groups, providing in-depth insights into various topics of special interest.

Bus-Video-Tour on the Nazi Party Rally Grounds

- Historical buildings and film clips on the original locations with a tour guide

   Unusual insights, historical facts as well as film clips from the period of National Socialism at original locations – Geschichte Für Alle e.V. and Schielein Reisen offer a totally new educational program with moderated and video-supported bus tours on the former Nazi Party Rally Grounds.

   The tour takes place on the former Nazi Party Rally Grounds, where the National Socialists held their elaborate annual propaganda spectacle. The tour provides an account of the use of architecture as a theatrical backdrop to the various events, explains the function of the rallies themselves and the way in which Nuremberg has dealt with its National Socialist legacy. Numerous historical film clips will be shown during the tour. English commentary provided by local guides.

Memorium Nuremberg Trials

World history was written in the criminal court of the Nuremberg Palace of Justice: On November 20, 1945 the trial against the “main war criminals” began in Courtroom 600. 21 leading representatives of the National Socialist regime were made to answer for their crimes against peace and humanity before an International Military Tribunal. 11 months later, on October 1, 1946, the sentences were pronounced. From 1946 to 1949 12 Subsequent Proceedings were held before american military courts.

The Memorium Nuremburg Trials, an information and documentation center located at the original site in the top floor of the criminal court building, provides information on the background, proceedings and consequences of the trials: The permanent exhibition explains the role of the defendants in the National Socialist power structure, the crimes they were accused of as well as the impact of the proceedings up to the present. Historic sound and film footage convey a vivid impression of the trial proceedings.

The Nuremberg Trials had an enormous influence on the development of modern international criminal law and made Courtroom 600 world famous. The “Nuremberg Principles” ensuing from the International Military Tribunal today form the basis for the International Criminal Court in The Hague.

Toy Museum

For more than 600 years Nuremberg has been a city of toys. Its tradition stretches from the doll makers of the Middle Ages to the outstanding pewter figure producers and the numerous tin toy manufacturers of the industrial epoch up to the International Toy Fair. Today, the world-famous Toy Museum with its wealth of exceptional exhibits breathes new life into this great historical tradition over 1,400 sqm of exhibition space.

The worldwide most important collection of Lehmann tin toys is the focus of a museum section depicting the history of the company. Cars, trains and steam engines are testimony to the technical development in miniature and are proof of the outstanding role played by Nuremberg toy manufacturers. The trains of the model railroad layout “Omaha” also regularly set off on trips – the only publicly accessible model railroad with the rail gauge S in Europe

Friends of more modern toys like Lego, Barbie, Playmobil or Matchbox cars will also get their money’s worth. Wooden toys, dolls, exquisite doll’s houses, Nuremberg kitchens with chimney hoods and optical games offer an insight into the living environment of past centuries.

In an imaginatively designed children’s area, the small visitors can play to their heart’s content. Moreover, during the summer are a large outside play area and the museum café in the secluded inner courtyard. Exciting children’s birthday programs can be individually booked all year long.

DB Railway Museum

Founded as early as 1882 today’s DB Museum is the oldest railway museum in the world. Under the umbrella of the German Railway Foundation, the history of the German railway throughout all epochs is kept alive. Around 200,000 guests visit the main museum in Nuremberg as well as the two branch offices in Koblenz and Halle an der Saale each year.

The core of the Nuremberg museum tells the history of the railway in Germany on 6,600 sqm of exhibition space. Various narrative strands report on the social, cultural and economic developments and also provide prospects for the future. Crowd pullers are the original vehicles. About 40 rail legends await visitors in two halls. In addition there are 15,000 sqm of open-air exhibition grounds and an open storage area with treasures from the museum’s collection.

The Modellarium displays over 2,000 models, from historical vehicles built to a scale of 1:5 up to an engine in a miniature format of 1:700. The famous steam locomotive the Adler (Eagle) is revived as a digital model.

Younger guests should not miss the Kid’s Trainland (KIBALA). It offers everything to make a child’s heart leap for joy: Many hands-on stations and the KIBALA Express invite everyone to play and learn. Along with this the DB Museum also offers a varied program for families and children, for the culturally aware as well as for train enthusiasts.

Museum for Communication

The Museum for Communication focuses on people and the way they communicate – from the first attempts of a child to speak to Web 2.0. The exhibition is divided up into four areas of communication: sound, images and writing as well as communication via the Internet. Over 400 objects from the telephony exchange to the iPad as well as many media stations make the contents come alive. Interactive elements invite children and adults to communicate, whether in the writing workshop, at the pneumatic postal tubes or in the media literacy test. In the reconstructed burial chamber of the Ancient Egyptian craftsman Sennedjem the connection between writing and the Cult of the Dead is clearly illustrated.

One of the core themes is in the area of “Network Worlds”, where the focus is on communication with digital media. Today we are both users and designers in a networked world without boundaries. The house belongs to the Museum Foundation Post and Telecommunication sponsored by the Deutsche Post AG and Deutsche Telekom AG.

Temporary exhibitions and a varied program of events from the Language Party to Data Tuesday round off the range of services offered by the museum.

A special attraction are the trips with the historical museum mail coach. In summer, tours lead through Knoblauchsland (a market garden area north of Nuremberg) and Fürth. During the Christkindlesmarkt there are tours through the Old Town, festively adorned with Christmas decorations.

Museums in Nuremberg
12. Medieval Dungeons

The medieval dungeons in the cellars of the Town Hall date back to the 14th century. Originally, bakers sold their wares here. When the Nuremberg citizens created their new town center with the main market in 1332, they converted the bakery into the Town Hall. The area around it was raised - the ground floor became the cellar and the former shops the prison cells. The dungeon was reserved primarily for prisoners awaiting trial and those condemned to death. The most famous inmate was probably the sculptor Veit Stoß, who was imprisoned for forging a promissory note. Cells, torture chamber, blacksmith’s, prison kitchen and the room with the deep well convey a vivid picture of late medieval jurisdiction.

A tour is usually only possible as part of a 30-minute walking tour with a multimedia guide. Guided tours for groups and school classes can be booked individually via the Art Education Center of the Museums in Nuremberg (KPZ). A visit is not advisable for children under the age of 10.

Hall of Honor

At the end of 2018, the newly renovated Hall of Honor in the Town Hall was provided with descriptive information panels in German and English, which convey the history of the Town Hall. Here you can learn how Nuremberg acquired its magnificent Town Hall or why the emperor preferred to live in the town rather than in the castle. In addition, the history of the paintings created by Albrecht Dürer for the upper hall and destroyed in WWII are explained here.

66 Museum for Industrial Culture and School Museum

The enormous hall of a former screw factory during the 1920s now houses the Museum for Industrial Culture on almost 6,000 sqm of exhibition space. Affiliated with it are the Motorcycle Museum “Ardie, Mars & Co.” and the School Museum with a historical classroom which conveys the atmosphere of school life and teaching in times gone by.

Here everything revolves around the history of the industrialization of Nuremberg from the 19th century to the structural changes of the present. The focus here is the life of the people: Along the “Museum Street” ensembles of objects make the past come to life. On one side of the street the steam engine house and a printer’s workshop document working life in the industrial age. On the other side of the street various living rooms reflect everyday life outside the factory and office. In the “Technology Revue” or the “Talking Kitchen” exhibition objects turn into actors and visitors become explorers. In the extensive motorcycle collection the golden age of Nuremberg as a stronghold of bicycle manufacturing production comes alive.

To help you get to know the museum, regular entertaining themed tours and exciting demonstrations are on offer, for example, in the historical pencil workshop, but amusing family tours as well. At certain times children can participate in the fully functioning lead typesetting printing workshop or together with older children try out computer games from the past and the present to their hearts’ content.

Dinosaur Museum Altmühlatal
Prehistoric Giants

Along a 1.5 kilometer adventure trail, you embark on an exciting journey through the geological ages and immerse yourself in millions of years of the history of life. About 70 life-size reproductions convey the feeling of being part of prehistoric times.
The genuine skeleton of a Tyrannosaurus rex is exhibited in the museum hall: With a length of almost ten meters, “Rocky” was not even fully grown. Above the visitors hovers “Dracula”, the largest pterosaur of all time, as tall as a giraffe when standing and with a wingspan of 14 meters. Two originals of the famous prehistoric bird Archaeopteryx are on display, the oldest and the youngest in geological history, making the Altmühlatal the most important fossil region in the world. 150 million years ago a coral reef covered central Bavaria. The most beautiful specimens of petrified fish and dinosaurs from the Bavarian Jurassic Sea are presented to the public for the first time.
Knowledge is gained in the Dinosaur Museum by being active. You can relive the work of a researcher by searching for real minerals, fossils and petrified shark teeth from the age of the dinosaurs. In various places in the museum you are invited to compete in size and speed with the prehistoric animals. Discover the Stone Age through demonstrations and hands-on activities.
Discover an exciting time. Two adventure playgrounds, a restaurant by the lake and a beer garden in the forest invite you to linger.
Unique locations such as the museum hall, surrounded by original dinosaur skeletons, and the yurt tent offer you extraordinary possibilities for private and business events.
The Dinosaur Museum Altmühlatal is the winner of the ADAC Tourism Award Bavaria 2018.

The Faber-Castell Experience!

At its ancestral seat in Stein, the long-established company of Faber-Castell offers three exciting sightseeing options: The Faber-Castell castle, the wood-cased pencil production and the museum “Alte Mine” (Pencil Lead Museum).

The starting point for the tours is the new visitor center in the newly restored Art Nouveau industrial building, where an expansive sun terrace with a view of the castle invites you to linger.

On a tour of the Count von Faber-Castell castle, which has been extensively restored in recent years, you can experience the link between an industrial progressive spirit and traditional family values.

The centerpiece of the company, the production of colored pencils and black lead pencils, comes alive in a two-hour tour. Over 500,000 woodcased pencils are produced here every day. Just how this works – from wooden board to finished pencil – is explained in a lively and fascinating fashion.

In the graphite-blackened original locations of the “Alte Mine” museum, visitors gain an insight into the once complicated process of manufacturing lead pencils in the 19th to mid-20th centuries.

Visitors to “The Faber-Castell Experience” can optionally book lunch at the Graf von Faber-Castell residence and receive attractive discounts at the new flagship store, where shopping on 200 square meters is itself an experience.

Cadolzburg Castle – The new highlight in the Nuremberg Metropolitan Region

A mighty castle – setting for the glorious history of a ruling family that went a long way: This is Cadolzburg, seat of the Hohenzollerns who from Franconia also ruled over Brandenburg and who later became Prussian kings and even German Emperors.

But how did the Hohenzollerns govern, sleep and fight 600 years ago? What did the Middle Ages smell and sound like? What was it like living in the castle? Find out about this and much more besides in the new “Hands-on-Castle-Experience” designed by the Bavarian Palace Department.

Its main focus is on the Golden Age of Cadolzburg Castle in the 14th/15th centuries. On four floors of the Old Residence original objects, elaborate reproductions, installations and media stations document life in the castle. With the aid of a virtual reality headset visitors can experience a late medieval tournament “live” in the context of “Tournaments in the Late Middle Ages”.

Try it out for yourselves: at Cadolzburg Castle the Middle Ages come to life with exhibits to touch, listen to, smell and much more. You can expect something really special – it’s simply the CASTLE THAT’S GREAT FOR YOUNG AND OLD!

Museums in Fürth

Since 2018 Fürth is a museum richer: The Ludwig Erhard Center is an exhibition, documentation, meeting place and research center, unique in Germany, which presents German Economic History both in the house where Erhard was born as well in a modern new building directly adjacent to the Town Hall.

Whereas in the permanent exhibition of the City Museum the development of the city is impressively displayed, in the Jewish Museum of Franconia insights are obtained into the Jewish history of Fürth. The largest Radio Museum in Germany illustrates in vivid fashion the development of TV and radio.

The Criminal Museum, the Museum of International Women’s Culture, the Dialysis Museum and the art gallery Fürth deal with special topics.

Ludwig Erhard Center

The Ludwig Erhard Center in Fürth, consisting of the birth place of Ludwig Erhard and a striking new building directly across from it, is an exhibition, documentation, meeting place and research center on Ludwig Erhard and his concept of the Social Market Economy, unique in Germany.

The heart of it is a 1,200 sqm permanent exhibition which presents history in an exciting and modern way, based on original objects, installations and media stations. It begins in the house where Ludwig Erhard was born in the small rooms of his former residence, leads over to the new building and ends in an interactive digital room of the future. Starting with the man himself, Ludwig Erhard, – his life, his achievements and his legacy – several narrative threads are woven together into a vivid overall narrative: Biographical and family history, contemporary history and economic history over a time period spanning the late 19th century to the present.

In the museum visitors can expect a varied range of events, special exhibitions and diverse museum educational programs. A “Learning Supermarket” conveys economic competencies to preschool and grade school children in a playful and practical manner. Furthermore, a research institute with a Ludwig Erhard Foundation Professional Chair for Social Market Economy is being set up.

The Museum Café “Luise” in the recently restored rooms of the former white goods appliances business of the Erhard family attracts you into the beautiful ambience of the 1950s. It is named after Erhard’s wife Luise – an economist like her husband and passionate cook and cake maker- and special delicacies from her recipe book are served here.

Jewish Museum of Franconia, Fürth

Is ham kosher? Can women become rabbis? And what is actually a ritual bath? Visit the Jewish Museum of Franconia in Fürth and learn more about Jewish life in Franconia. From the Middle Ages up the 19th century Jewish communities existed in well over 300 locations. The museum itself is found in a formerly Jewish 17th century residence. Magnificent stucco ceilings, a sukkah and a ritual bath are unique evidence of this period. Precious ritual objects and impressive everyday objects testify to the rich traditions of Franconia’s Jewish culture. Barrier-Free Nuremberg

Nuremberg and its diverse museum landscape have a lot to offer - also for people who are restricted in their activity or are mobility-impaired.

• Museum for Industrial Culture (Museum Industriekultur)
• Natural History Museum (Naturhistorisches Museum)
• New Museum (Neues Museum)

Despite the greatest care in compiling the contents and information, we cannot assume any liability for the contents of the offers. We recommend that you contact the provider directly before your visit in order to discuss your individual needs with regard to the accessibility of the facility / offer.

Tourism for All

The nationwide labelling system “Tourism for All” is based on extensive criteria to ensure high cross-sectoral quality standards. These have been developed jointly by associations of those affected and tourism associations.

“Tourism for All” is an information and evaluation system that enables guests to independently assess the suitability of the offer for their requirements.

Guests can thus check whether tourist offers can be used or personally experienced on the basis of reliable detailed information in the run-up to the trip and select and book the offers that are suitable for them.

Certification is therefore not about ensuring that all offers are completely barrier-free - it is much more important to have reliable information about the actually available offer.

This is because “ALL“ travelers benefit from it, i.e. persons with disabilities, but also senior citizens, or families with buggies and luggage.

The Label

The “Information on Accessibility” label signals that detailed and verified information on accessibility is available for all groups of persons.

The “Accessibility Checked” label is based on “Accessibility Information“ and means that the quality criteria for certain groups of people are also partially or completely fulfilled.
Specimen Label

The label “Accessibility Checked” has two quality classifications:

- “Accessibility Checked: partially barrier-free“: The quality criteria are partially fulfilled for the group of persons shown, i.e. the offer is partially barrier-free for wheelchair users. The “i” in the pictogram indicates that one should read more carefully as to whether the offer meets one’s own requirements.
- “Accessibility Checked: barrier-free“: The quality criteria are fulfilled for the group of people shown, i.e. the offer is barrier-free for wheelchair users.

39 Peller House

The Friends of the Old Town show you the Peller Courtyard

Amongst the historic buildings of Old Nuremberg the world-famous Peller House with its prestigious courtyard had a special status. No other burgher’s residence could compete with the splendid building on the north side of the Egidienberg. After it was almost totally destroyed in WWII, the Friends of the Old Town have been working on the reconstruction of the courtyard since 2009. In mid-2018 the elaborate sandstone work with the decorative gable on the north side was completed. The courtyard can now be admired in all its splendor.

The Peller House is open in the daytime during the week, on the weekends from 2 – 5 pm. Tours on Saturdays at 3 pm or on request. Drop by and be fascinated by the atmosphere of the most beautiful burgher’s courtyard in Nuremberg!

18 Historical Rock-Cut Cellars

An extensive labyrinth of subterranean passageways and cellar vaults has existed in the bedrock of castle hill for centuries – the Historical Rock-Cut Cellars. As early as 1380 Nuremberg’s traditional beer was stored in the subterranean cellars, sometimes comprising four levels, that had been cut into the typical Nuremberg sandstone. Later they were used to store food supplies. During World War II the historical underground vaults served as air raid shelters.

Follow us into the Nuremberg rock-cut cellars, a fascinating labyrinth made up of a myriad of widely branching tunnels and cellars, which were hewn out of the rock face many centuries ago. During a tour, you can discover this unique subterranean cellar system and learn interesting facts about the laws and regulations in the cellars. You will also learn something about the various uses of these cellars over the last 700 years and the craft of brewing beer in the Altstadthof brewpub.

15 World War II Art Bunker – unique in Germany

Air-Raid Shelter for Artworks, Destruction and Rebuilding in Nuremberg

Deep down under Castle Hill the most important Nuremberg art treasures survived the many air raids of World War II.

Shortly after the outbreak of the war a unique bunker system was built to protect these artworks from destruction and plundering.

In contrast, however, many historic buildings in the old medieval town suffered severe damage. “The Treasure Chest of the German Nation” had become a city of ruins.

How this city of ruins gradually grew into the present-day Nuremberg – that, too, you will discover in a tour of the bunkers whose basic form has survived.

15 Casemates and Water Supply Conduits

Since 1545 the imposing bastions of the master builder Antonio Fazuni have risen from the dry moat behind the castle – even today a prime example of Renaissance fortification construction in Germany.

Within the bastions steep steps lead down into the defense passageways of the Imperial Castle, the casemates with their embrasures for shooting weapons from. From inside the fortification wall one can still look out through a few of these embrasures today and imagine how the Nuremberg militia of the past fired upon their attackers.

From the casemates another set of stairs leads down to the medieval rock-cut cellars containing the water supply conduits. The impressive, once secret water channels were used well into the 20th c.

Nuremberg Zoo

Families can spend a wonderful day at the zoo. Children can look at meerkats face-to-face, tropical butterflies hover around the little visitors, and gorillas, giraffes and cheetahs quietly allow themselves to be observed.

In the dolphin lagoon, unique in Germany, the dolphins swim outdoors for most of the year. The marine mammals can also be seen through a large underwater glass panel. A small jewel is the desert house opened in 2018. Here visitors stand right in the middle of a warm desert. The Jako-o playground with a giant slide, large trampoline squares, a swing for a whole family and many other kinds of playground equipment provides enough room to let off steam.

Many benches with tables for resting and eating a snack are distributed around the entire zoo. The “Little Eagle”, a miniature train based on Germany’s first train runs from the giraffe enclosure to the Children’s Zoo and takes tired children to the exit.

A special highlight is the tropically warm, sunny manatee house. Here brightly colored butterflies flutter around the visitors and colorful iridescent birds perch within the lush splendor of the plants.

The protection of endangered species in Germany and South America

Today the protection of endangered species and nature is one of the most urgent tasks facing zoos all over the world. Together with Yaku Pacha, an organization founded in the Nuremberg Zoo to protect aquatic mammals of South America, the zoo also supports the protection of threatened dolphin species and participates in more than 30 European “Preservation of Endangered Species Programs” (EEPs).

Playground of the Senses
Can you paint sounds? What does birch tar smell like? And what all do our hands grasp? Around 100 supervised discovery stations on the green meadows provide answers to such questions. Here young and old interactively discover their own sensory perceptions, natural phenomena and the interconnection of man and his environment. The smell of bread radiates from the baking station, water splashes at the water action area, feet are pricked and poked on the barefoot path, the hanging bridge clatters when you run over it and in the crazy house you literally get out of step. Every year there is a special main theme with many new stations and activities. In 2019 it is “Team Play”, including joint team games and string games, e.g. cat’s cradle. Church of Our Lady (Rom. Cath.)
The three-aisled Church of Our Lady was the first Gothic hall church in Franconia and is among the three most important churches in Nuremberg. Erected in 1355-58 by Emperor Charles IV, the imperial regalia were displayed to the public in 1361. The “Männleinlaufen” (mechanical clock and glockenspiel, every day at noon) recalls the proclamation of the Golden Bull of 1356: seven Electors pay homage to Emperor Karl IV sitting on his throne. Significant artworks in the Church of Lady are the three oldest stained glass paintings in Nuremberg from the Emperors Window donated by Charles IV, the Tucher altarpiece, created by an unknown master ca. 1445 and the most important example of panel painting before Albrecht Dürer as well as two memorial plaques by the famous Nuremberg sculptor Adam Kraft and panel paintings by Michael Wolgemut. The Nuremberg Christkindlesmarkt is opened from the balcony.

St. Lawrence Church (Prot. Luth.)
Construction began about 1250. Originally built as a three-aisled basilica in the high Gothic style; later extended with an imposing late Gothic hall choir (1439 – 1477). Visitors are received at the magnificent west facade with a splendid portal richly decorated with statuary and a rose window made of stone (mid-14th c.). The two towers rise to heights of 80 and 81 meters. Important works of art inside are the Annunciation by Veit Stoß (1518), the tabernacle by Adam Kraft (1496) as well as numerous medieval altars, memorial plaques and stained glass paintings. The three-part Laurentius Organ is one of the largest organs in the world. More than 12,000 pipes and 165 registers make church services and organ concerts in the St. Lawrence Church a unique experience. Equally resounding is the ringing of the bells. The oldest of the 16 bells dates back to the 14th century.

19 St. Sebald Church (Prot. Luth.)
Construction began on St. Sebald Church, a Late Romanesque pillared basilica with two choirs, in 1230/40. By 1379 the original side aisles had been widened, the towers raised in the High Gothic style and the Late Gothic hall choir built.

Inside the church stands the reliquary shrine (ca. 1397) in the tomb cast in bronze by Peter Vischer and his sons (1508 – 1519). The bones of Nuremberg’s Catholic patron saint Sebaldus are presumed to rest in the silver embossed “casket”. The wealth of the city of Nuremberg and its patrician families is reflected in numerous figures and memorial plaques by the woodcarver and sculptor Veit Stoß as well as the stained glass windows by Veit Hirs vogel, made according to designs by Albrecht Dürer and Hans Süß.

Former Wine Depot
With a length of 48 meters the Weinstadel is one of the largest half-timbered houses in Germany. Built from 1446 to 1448, the lepers of the city were fed during the Holy Week. As of the 16th century craftsmen, poor families and the infirm were provided shelter here. From 1571 the free imperial city of Nuremberg stored some of their stocks of wine here.
Today the interior of the Weinstadel has been modernized and accommodates a student dormitory with its own canteen. The romantic ensemble with the Hangman’s Bridge and the Hangman’s Tower makes it one of the most popular photo motifs in Nuremberg.

Tanners’ Lane

The Way of Human Rights
The Way of Human Rights is entered through a stylized triumphal arch from the Kornmarkt and lined by 27, 9-meter-high concrete pillars. Inscribed on each of them and on two ground plaques as well as the integrated cypress oak is an article of the General Declaration of Human Rights in German and another language.

“Obligation to the Past”
The walkthrough work of art flanking the Germanisches Nationalmuseum created by the Israeli artist Dani Karavan not only changed Nuremberg’s image but also heightened the entire city’s consciousness of its obligation to the past. The Way of Human Rights in Nuremberg uniquely displays the force of momentous ideas.
International Human Rights Award
The award was presented for the first time on September 17, 1995, almost 60 years to the day after the passage of the National Socialist Racial Laws and 50 years after the end of World War II. The biennial award presentation is the culmination of Nuremberg’s broadly conceived aim of doing justice to its self-imposed commitment as the “City of Peace and Human Rights”.

Sights in Fürth

The city with the cloverleaf in its coat of arms has many facets: over 2,000 monuments, more than 1,000 years of history, green oases, idyllic old town nooks and a touch of artisanal flair. Worth seeing in every respect is the Neo-Baroque Municipal Theater, the Town Hall with its 55-meter high tower inspired by the Palazzo Vecchio in Florence or the picturesque Old Town. Here visitors will find a unique mixture of taverns, creative workshops and young shops with individual and sustainable products. This individuality is characteristic of the city, which also has a lively art and cultural scene. While strolling through the streets and backstreets, guests everywhere encounter a typical Franconian imperturbability. Discover the charm of Fürth!

F1 Town Hall of Fürth
The monumental building was constructed 1840 – 1850 from the plans of Friedrich and Eduard Bürklein in the Neoclassical style of the famous architect Friedrich von Gartner. The 55-meter high tower, the landmark of the city, is inspired by the Palazzo Vecchio in Florence. The industrial town grew so quickly that an extension had to be added just 50 years later. The two staircases and the hall are a “must-see”.

Tour through the Historical Rock-Cut Cellars: Follow us into the Nuremberg rock-cut cellars, stone corridors, a fascinating labyrinth made up of a myriad of widely branching tunnels and cellars. During a tour you can explore this unique subterranean tunnel system and learn interesting facts about the laws and regulations in the cellars. You will also learn something about the various uses over the last 700 years and the craft of brewing beer in the brewpub Altstadthof.

Red Beer in Deep Cellars – Tour

700 years of beer history in Nuremberg. The so-called barley law of 1303 marked the beginning of Nuremberg’s known beer brewing tradition, a fluctuating history of beer brewing, which had its ups and downs. The tour begins at the Altstadthof brewpub, leads you through a section of the rock-cut cellars and ends with a visit to the Altstadthof brewery as well as the whisky distillery. Includes beer tasting of pale lager and Nuremberg red beer, a typical type of beer brewed chiefly in Nuremberg until the 18th century.

A Walk in the Dark (Dunkelführung):

Plunge into the darkness, sharpen your senses and discover what once happened down there in the rock corridors.

Nuremberg’s Forgotten Spirits (Kellergeister):

Walking Tours on Your Own

Walk through the Old Town

Start your tour at one of Nuremberg's three most important Old Town churches, the St. Lawrence Church (p.59). The church welcomes its visitors with a magnificent portal; inside it offers important works of art by Veit Stoß or Adam Kraft as well as one of the largest organs in the world.

Via Kaiserstraße and the Charles Bridge, built in 1486, we continue to the Trödelmarkt, a small island in the Pegnitz River with lovingly restored ensembles of houses.

As soon as you have crossed the Hangman's Bridge (p.66), via which the executioner reached the town from his isolated apartment in the Hangman's Residence (p.34), your path leads you along the Pegnitz River to the Max Bridge (photo stop). From here you have a wonderful view on one side of the Weinstadel (former wine depot) (p.64), and on the other side of the Kettensteg (p.64), the next point on the walk. This is considered to be the oldest surviving iron chained suspension bridge in continental Europe and leads directly to Weißgerbergasse (p.64), with its approximately twenty predominantly half-timbered historical houses. Past the St. Sebald Church (p.60), the oldest parish church in Nuremberg, and the Old Town Hall (p.63) with the Medieval Dungeons (p.28). The walk now leads uphill to the landmark of the city: The Imperial Castle (p.14). The walk up is worthwhile not only because of the exhibition “Emperor - Empire - City” or the Imperial Castle Museum, but also because of the fantastic view over the Old Town offered here (photo stop!). Passing the Sinwell Tower you reach the Albrecht Dürer House (p.17) along the Ölbergasse, the former living and working quarters of the famous artist.

Here, at Tiergärtnertor Square (p. 66), it is advisable to let the evening fade away and “mingle with the crowd”, because this is a very popular hotspot for the citizens of Nuremberg, especially in summer. Bergstrasse leads you downhill (Tip: Visit the Historical Rock-Cut Cellars (p.51) and try a Nuremberg red beer). Now to the main market square with the Beautiful Fountain (p.63). Make sure you turn the Golden Ring and make a wish! On the opposite side of the market is the Church of Our Lady (p.59), where the “Männleinlaufen” glockenspiel on the west gable takes place daily at 12 noon, a representation of the seven electors who pass by Emperor Charles IV and commemorate the proclamation of the Golden Bull of 1356. On the main market square, the heart of the city, various (cultural) events take place several times a year (tourismus.nuernberg.de/events) as well as the famous Nuremberg Christkindlesmarkt during Advent (www.christkindlesmarkt.de).

Your tour through Nuremberg's Old Town ends on the Museum Bridge, with a view of the Holy Spirit Hospital (p.66).
Art, Culture and Master Traders

The tour starts with a visit to the 3 Neues Museum - State Museum of Art and Design (p.19). Painting, sculpture, photography, video art and various installations provide insights into modern art since the 1960s. After a short coffee break, walk past the 27 concrete pillars of the 31 Way of Human Rights (p.65) to the 30 Germanisches Nationalmuseum (p.18), the largest museum of cultural history in the German-speaking world. The museum houses important art and cultural treasures from prehistory and early history to the present day, including masterpieces by Albrecht Dürer, Lucas Cranach and Veit Stoß, as well as the Behaim globe and the precious cover of the Codex Aureus.

Along the Kommarkt and the Dr.-Kurt-Schumacher-Straße you reach the 25 Marriage Merry-Go-Round (p.63) after a few minutes. Surrounding the dancing Meistersinger of Nuremberg, Hans Sachs, the figural fountain displays married life in six scenes – from the first stages of infatuation through to death. Sachs’s poem “Bitter-Sweet Married Life” served as a model.

Along the city wall and over the 22 Kettensteg (p.64), the oldest surviving iron chained suspension bridge in continental Europe, the route leads directly to the lively castle district. You can stroll, completely relaxed, past historical buildings, half-timbered houses and small cafés, browsing to your heart’s content, shopping and finding all sorts of specialties at the Nuremberg master traders (p.118-121, www.nuemberger-meisterhaendler.de).
The Different Nuremberg

Tip: Rent a VAG bike (www.vagrad.de) and explore the city.

All those who like to stroll along the market stalls should make a short detour to the weekly market on the main market square before starting the tour. The colorful market stalls are open from Monday to Saturday (7 am - 8 pm) and offer products from the region and Knoblauchsland (Garlic Land), one of the largest contiguous market gardening areas of its kind just outside Nuremberg.

The subway takes you within a few minutes from the “Lorenzkirche” station to “Gostenhof“, the trendy district of Nuremberg (www.in-goho.de). Or you can rent a VAG bike and explore the city with it (www.vagrad.de).

Along the Fürther Straße there are numerous stores, second-hand shops, boutiques and craftsmen’s shops, but on the side streets there are also many small treasures as well as Nuremberg’s only unpacked store where food, hygiene articles and much more are offered without packaging (don’t forget your own containers!).

If you’re lucky enough to end up there on just the right day you can enjoy the popular back courtyard markets - at doors with colorful balloons it’s worth taking a look “behind the scenes”.

If you need a break in between, you’ll be in good hands in one of the small cafés, and numerous bistro offer a large selection for vegetarians and vegans. At the end of the day you can enjoy a locally brewed pale beer or the typical Nuremberg red beer in one of the many pubs.

It is also worth visiting “the MUZ“ (www.musikzentrale.com), the trendy network scene for musicians and music lovers in Greater Nuremberg, which promotes young artists of all musical genres and offers a stage for alternating events.

Tip: Street art enthusiasts should take a look in the back courtyard!

Obligation to the Past

As the City of the Nazi Party Rallies, the City of the Racial Laws and the city in which the trials against the main perpetrators of the National Socialist regime took place, Nuremberg has been facing up to the task of coming to terms with the past for many decades and at the same time is shaping its present and future as the "City of Peace and Human Rights".

The tour begins with a visit to the Documentation Center Nazi Party Rally Grounds (p.22). The permanent exhibition “Fascination and Terror” documents the Nazi Party Rallies in Nuremberg and their function within National Socialism and shows the causes, connections and consequences of National Socialism in a transparent manner.

Tip: Plan your visit here - most visitors spend an average of three hours.

Afterwards, a tour of the former Nazi Party Rally Grounds is recommended. 23 large panels at the historic site provide information about the buildings, the propaganda staging of the National Socialists and how the site is used today. The individual tour lasts about one and a half hours, alternatively guided tours on foot or by bus (p.23) are offered. Afterwards it is worth taking a short break at the Dutzendteich Public Park (p.67).

The Memorium Nuremberg Trials (p.24) can be reached by the bus and subway. The "Memorium Nuremberg Trials" in Courtroom 600 - the scene of the trials of the main war criminals from 1945 to 1949 - is an information and documentation center at the original site. It illuminates the prehistory, the course and aftermath of the Nuremberg Trials up to the International Criminal Court in The Hague.

At the end of the day, it is worthwhile taking a stroll through the Way of Human Rights (p.65) back in the Old Town. The walkthrough artwork of the Israeli artist Dani Karavan consists of 27 white concrete pillars, each inscribed with an article of the General Declaration of Human Rights in German and in a foreign language, as well as a cyprus oak, two ground plaques and an archway.

Stages in Fürth

Culture enthusiasts can enjoy classical to cheeky performances in the magnificent Municipal Theater, hilarious performances in the Comödie Fürth, the home stage of the famous comedians Martin Rassau and Volker Heßmann, or look for subculture in the Kofferfabrik cultural center and special events in the Kulturforum.

The central venue for concerts, receptions and conferences is the Stadthalle Fürth Civic Center.

Fürth Municipal Theater
One of the most splendid buildings in Fürth is the Municipal Theater built by the famous Viennese architects Helmer and Fellner in Neo-Baroque style in 1902. They achieved a prestigious effect with the “portal arch”, the flanking columns and the architectural sculpture: Reliefs of Mozart and Schiller, busts of Wagner, Beethoven, Goethe and Lessing on the side facades, represent the program of the house, a venue for theater and opera productions.

Nuremberg Sausages

The genuine Nuremberg grilled sausages have been around for over 700 years. As early as 1313 a law specifies that “only the most valuable part of the pig” may be used for the little sausages seasoned with marjoram, which must be 7 to 9 cm long and weigh 20 to 25 g. Endorsed with the status of Protected Geographical Indication (PGI) today the Nuremberg sausages are ranked along with other important international specialties such as Parma ham or Champagne in the top list of European foods.

The Nuremberg sausages are traditionally grilled in the sausage restaurants over a beechwood fire which lends the sausages an additional aroma. Crispy cooked they taste good whether in the quick version of “Three in a Bun” or as six, eight, ten or 12 pieces served on a pewter plate with mustard or horse radish. Typical side dishes are sauerkraut, potato salad or a slice of coarse rye bread. Along with the grilled variation there are also “soused sausages” cooked in a stock consisting of vinegar, onions, wine and seasonings.

A Nuremberg Original

In 2003 the Nuremberg sausage was the first sausage in Europe to be designated a “Protected Geographical Indication” by the EU. This seal confirms that all sausages declared as “Nuremberg Grilled Sausages” must be manufactured within the city limits of Nuremberg according to a specified recipe.

Historical Grilled Sausage Restaurant “Zum Gulden Stern”

The famous Historical Grilled Sausage Restaurant “Zum Gulden Stern” anno 1419 is the oldest grilled sausage restaurant in the world. It gives you an insight into the late Middle Ages during the time of Albrecht Dürer, who must certainly have once been a guest here. The house at Zirkelschmiedsgasse 26 was built in 1375 and first documented in 1419, in a district whose buildings formed the nucleus of the historic Old Town of Nuremberg. The premises, consisting of two buildings, survived all the wars and it is the oldest tavern still standing on the same location in Nuremberg. In the historical grilled sausage restaurant you will find many treats. The specialty of the house is, however, the Original Nürnberg “Rösta”®. Martin Hilleprandt, the owner of the historical grilled sausage restaurant, registered this trademark in 2013 to protect the Nuremberg grilled sausage. In addition, soups made of potatoes, soup greens, bones and beef are freshly cooked and the potato salad freshly prepared daily in the historical grilled sausage restaurant. Anyone who wasn’t here wasn’t in Nuremberg!

There are over 400 such stores in the Old Town and the city center.

Particularly in the owner-managed shops, great value is placed on details and quality. Whether handcrafted bags with their own label, high-quality pottery, sewing design from old fabrics or many more decorative and practical items - you’ll never cease being amazed. Sustainability and fair trade also play an important role in many shops.

This is also underscored by the Grafflmarkt, the street-festival flea market in the charming Old Town of Fürth, which takes place twice a year, in 2019 on September 13 / 14 (2020: June 26/27 and September 18/19).

“The way to a man’s heart is through his stomach”

Your mouth will start watering during a visit to the somewhat hidden gourmet shops. On a discovery tour, for example, you can enjoy unique whisky tasting, inhale the aroma of coffee in a coffee roastery or shop in a true cheese temple.

In three locations you can also discover the history of Fürth and its beer in a unique way. In the fall of 2018, the Art Noveau brewery in Schwabacher Strasse became home to "Humbser und Freunde", a new gastronomic highlight in Fürth, while in the spring of 2019 the traditional restaurant “Grüner Baum” in the legendary Gustavstrasse reopened. The Berolzheimerianum is not only the venue of the Comodie Fürth, but also home to the "Grüner Brauhaus". Savor the Franconian delicacies and let yourself be surprised by the diversity in the cloverleaf city!

This will be particularly rewarding at the new Fürther Markt on the Fürther Freiheit, where guests and Fürth citizens can enjoy not only vegetables, fruit and delicacies but also an Aperol spritz.
