15 Imperial Castle

The Imperial Castle was one of the most important fortified imperial palaces of the Holy Roman Empire in the Middle Ages. For centuries, it stood at the center of European history and served as a secure military outpost and prestigious accommodation for the emperors. Erected under the Hohenstaufen and their successors on top of older buildings, the extensive castle complex is world famous as the landmark of Nuremberg.

Emperor - Empire - City

The exhibition "Emperor - Empire - City", with a tour through the historic rooms of the Imperial Castle, offers not only a detailed look at the content and function of the structure itself, but also interesting information on the Holy Roman Empire of the German Nation and the role of Nuremberg in the late Middle Ages - all conveyed to visitors, large and small, in a fascinating and stimulating manner. Valuable objects on loan and impressive reproductions in this authentic location enable visitors to experience Nuremberg's Golden Age and the castle's unique history from the Middle Ages to the nineteenth century. The tour leads from the Knights' Hall through the Double Chapel up to the great hall of the castle and from there to the weapons collection of the Germanisches Nationalmuseum in the Imperial Castle Museum.

Double Chapel and Palas

From an art history perspective, the Romanesque Imperial Chapel is the most important part of the Imperial Castle. It was built around 1200, together with the Palas. The Palas includes a hall building with two large chambers lying above one another as well as a residential wing with several private rooms. The Palas and Double Chapel were skillfully adapted to the irregular contours of the rocky hill. Characteristic of double chapels are two chapels with an identical ground plan lying above one another, which may be linked through an opening in the center of the floor. The ruler's gallery - a specialty of the Nuremberg Double Chapel - allowed the emperor direct access from the upper hall and the imperial chambers of the Palas and, at the same time, a certain distance from the royal court. A heated oratory was built for Emperor Charles V in 1520.

Sinwell Tower and Deep Well

The Sinwell Tower - a round tower in the outer bailey visible from a long distance - was a keep, serving both defensive and prestige purposes. Built in the late 13th century, the slender tower received another floor in the 1560s, with an overhanging platform crowned by a Renaissance spire. The platform offers wonderful views of the castle and Old Town. Photos taken before and after World War II illustrate the amount of destruction and reconstruction caused by the war.

The Deep Well at the center of the outer bailey was most likely built during the earliest construction phase to provide an autonomous water supply for the castle. Its shaft was driven almost 50 m into the rock below, a depth which can be appreciated by a camera lowered into it during a vivid guided tour.

15 Imperial Castle Museum

The Imperial Castle Museum, a branch of the Germanisches Nationalmuseum, shows the historical role and the changing tasks of the Nuremberg Imperial Castle. In the earlier residential building excavation finds, ornamental architectural elements, models and reconstruction sketches illustrate the history of this important site. The castle was not only a defensive complex, but also served research activities. In 1677, for instance, Eimmart built an observatory on the Vestner Gate bastion which became world renowned for its accuracy of measurement. It owed its precision to its astronomical clock, a shining example of contemporary science.

Exhibition

The collection of historical defensive and offensive weapons, such as body armor, firearms and pole weapons, shields and other accessories, demonstrates how the art of warfare changed throughout the centuries. The exhibition includes ceremonial and tournament armor as testimony to the medieval art of the armorer, crossbows used for hunting and sport and inventively shaped pole weapons of the foot soldiers and landsknechts or mercenaries. Firearms began to dominate the battlefields from the 16th century onwards. Historical saddles, stirrups, snaffles (bits for bridles) and spurs make reference to the important role of the horse in terms of military use as well as in tournaments and travelling.

18 Albrecht Dürer's House

Albrecht Dürer's House located just below the Imperial Castle, presents in a new concept the living and working quarters of one of the most famous painters, graphic artists and theoreticians in art history, namely Albrecht Dürer (1471–1528).

The massive half-timbered house – built in 1420 – was acquired by Dürer in 1509 and here is where he also died in 1528. The building miraculously survived the devastating bombing of the Nuremberg Old Town in 1945 and is thus today one of the few undestroyed burgher's residences from Nuremberg's Golden Age, which is at the same time the only surviving late medieval artist's houses in Northern Europe. Already as of 1828 one of the earliest artist's memorial sites internationally, the house was remodeled into a museum in 1871 and was extended by an annex in 1971. It contains living rooms and kitchens as well as a large workshop with functioning printing equipment. The rooms today convey an authentic atmosphere and reflect the history of the house

Valuable copies of Dürer paintings are presented in the modern Dürer Hall. In the Graphic Cabinet, temporary exhibits display treasures from the city collections, including original graphics from Dürer. In the workshop historical printing techniques are explained and demonstrated. Interactive media stations convey a lively insight into the work and personality, life and times of the great genius.

And finally, "Agnes Dürer", his wife, played by an actress, takes you on personal tours through the master's house.

32 Germanisches Nationalmuseum

In the heart of Nuremberg, the Germanisches Nationalmuseum offers a journey through 600,000 years of European art, cultural and history. Both advanced culture and that of daily life come together in the largest museum of culture in the German-speaking world, offering a fascinating glimpse into the cultural heritage of Europe.

We Tell Stories

European culture has always lived from exchange. It is a mirror of antique, Byzantine, Arabic and Asian culture. We want to identify influences and understand connections in order to tell stories of its history.

Humans and Their Things

A golden cone from the Bronze Age and the oldest globe in the world, the eagle's brooch from Ravenna or an astrolabe from Syria show the changing history of human beings. These are just as impressive as the masterful works of Albrecht Dürer or a kneeling figure from Wilhelm Lehmbruck.

Architecture and Museum

A walk through the museum is also a trip through the history of architecture: The post-modern foyer leads to the Gothic Carthusian Cloister, the green gardens in the inner courtyard are reflected in the modern glass structures designed by the architect Sep Ruf – together they form the GNM.

How will we live in 10, 20 or 50 years? How will technology develop - and what challenges will that bring us as a society? What do we want? What do we fear? The branch of the Deutsches Museum in the heart of Nuremberg's Old Town invites you to share in a fascinating and informative look into the future. A basic conceptual idea of contrasting science and fiction flows through the exhibit. Concrete projects from current research are presented, some of which may influence our life tomorrow. This is intended to prompt a discussion about the opportunities offered by various technologies - but also possible risks and consequences for our personal daily life and that of society.

Which ethical questions will technology force us to consider? The permanent exhibit covers 2,900 m² of space, focusing on five thematic areas. These begin with an individual's personal environment in "Work and Daily Life" and "Mind and Body". A broader perspective is opened with the themes "System City" and "System Earth". The final thematic area explores the dream of mankind to travel through "Time and Space". A library, a "Future Workshop" and two hands-on laboratories - "Voyager" and "Discovery" - round out the presentation. There's also an opportunity to take a very personal virtual reality trip into the city of Nuremberg in 2050.

A team of "Future Communicators" are always available during your visit to answer questions or exchange ideas.

42 Museum Tucher Mansion and Hirsvogel Hall

In the Tucher Mansion, built from 1533-44, the domestic world of a prominent 16th century merchant family comes to life again. The collection, even today still owned by the Tucher patrician family, displays valuable furniture, tapestries, paintings and precious decorative art works.

The picturesque Renaissance garden invites you to picnic there on Sundays and offers a splendid view of the magnificent Hirsvogel Hall (originally built 1534, destroyed 1945, reconstructed 2000). With the exquisite wall paneling by Peter Flötner and the famous painted ceiling by Georg Pencz, a pupil of Dürer, it ranks as one of Germany's loveliest Renaissance interiors.

Twelve plaster of paris busts of the first Roman emperors complete the interior ensemble.

Every Sunday an actress assumes the role of the former lady of the house, Katharina Tucher, and gives a tour of the mansion and the Hirsvogel Hall and entices you to explore the historical secrets of the Tucher Mansion.

We would be happy to inform you about our room hiring terms for the premises.

60 Documentation Center Nazi Party Rally Grounds

In 1933, Hitler chose Nuremberg as the „City of the Nazi Party Rallies“. Still today, the remains of the massive structures built by the Nazi Party on the former Rally Grounds in the south of Nuremberg bear witness to the yearly propaganda show of their National Socialist regime. The Documentation Center Nazi Party Rally Grounds is located in the north wing of the Congress Hall, which was designed for 50,000 spectators but never completed. The modern structure of the Documentation Center slices diagonally through the historic building, setting a clear architectural signal opposing the monumental severity of the Congress Hall.

The Documentation Center is currently being renovated. Until the museum and its new permanent exhibit reopens in 2024, an interim is available. Entitled „Nuremberg – Site of the Nazi Party Rallies. Staging, Experience and Violence“, it uses numerous objects, photos and films to provide information about the history of the Nazi Party Rallies and the Grounds in both German and English. An extensive program of tours and events for groups and individual visitors round out the offering.

For the first time, national history is told through a local perspective, with biographies and eyewitness accounts providing personal points of view on the subject.

On the grounds themselves, information panels along a 90-minute route describe the history of a particular location.

76 Memorium Nuremberg Trials

World history was written in the criminal court of the Nuremberg Palace of Justice: On November 20, 1945, the trial against the Nazi “main war criminals” began in Courtroom 600. Twenty-one leading representatives of the National Socialist regime had to answer for their crimes before an international military tribunal. Eleven months later, on October 1, 1946, the sentences were pronounced. From 1946 to 1949, 12 subsequent trials were held before American military courts.

The Memorium Nuremberg Trials, an information and documentation center located at the original site in the top floor of the criminal court building, provides information on the background and reason for these historic trials, the proceedings themselves and their impact from then until today. The Nuremberg Trials were a milestone in the development of international criminal law and made Courtroom 600 world famous. Historic sound and film footage convey a vivid impression of the trial proceedings.

In addition to the permanent exhibit, a variety of temporary exhibits are available on a regular basis. These are displayed in Cube 600 of the Memorium Nuremberg Trials, which is located near the main building. A visit here is free of charge.

14 City Museum at Fembo House

The Fembo House is the last still surviving merchant's and patrician's residence in Nuremberg from the Renaissance and Baroque period. Erected between 1591 and 1596 by the Dutch silk dealer Philipp van Oyrl at a prominent site between the Town Hall and the Imperial Castle, today it houses the Nuremberg City Museum.

On the way through the house splendid historical rooms from past epochs come alive: The dancing hall, the Baroque antechamber or the “Beautiful Room” from the Peller House reflect even today the splendor of the patrician residences. Fascinating details of Nuremberg's “Golden Age”, of the emperors, patricians as well as trade and crafts in the imperial city vividly come alive.

On the ground floor the exhibition hall “A Crown - Power - History” with high-quality copies of the imperial regalia invites you to become familiar with the most important chapters of the city's history in around 30 minutes – the fastest way to become an expert on Nuremberg! A media guide in nine languages also offers many opportunities to deepen your knowledge of the history behind the vibrant objects: from the first documentary mention of Nuremberg in 1050 up to the present.

Currently, the permanent exhibit at the City Museum at Fembo House is being modernized step-by-step. In progress are an interactive production for the large wooden city model, a look at the past through virtual reality as well as a new guidance system for guests.

21 Toy Museum

For more than 600 years Nuremberg has been a city of toys. Its tradition stretches from the doll makers of the Middle Ages to the outstanding pewter figure producers and the numerous tin toy manufacturers of the industrial epoch up to the International Toy Fair. Today, the world-famous Toy Museum with its wealth of exceptional exhibits breathes new life into this great historical tradition over 1,400 sqm of exhibition space.

The worldwide most important collection of Lehmann tin toys is the focus of a museum section depicting the history of the company. Cars, trains and steam engines are testimony to the technical development in miniature and are proof of the outstanding role played by Nuremberg toy manufacturers. The trains of the model railroad layout "Omaha" also regularly set off on trips – the only publicly accessible model railroad with the rail gauge S in Europe

Friends of more modern toys like Lego, Barbie, Playmobil or Matchbox cars will also get their money's worth. Wooden toys, dolls, exquisite doll's houses, Nuremberg kitchens with chimney hoods and optical games offer an insight into the living environment of past centuries.

In an imaginatively designed children's area, the small visitors can play to their heart's content. Moreover, during the summer are a large outside play area and the museum café in the secluded inner courtyard. Exciting children's birthday programs can be individually booked all year long.

55 Museum for Communication

Again and again to "discover – understand – create" has been the theme of the Museum for Communication for more than 120 years.

Four themed areas currently focus on the understanding of sounds, images and writing as well as communication on the Internet. More than 400 objects – from a telephone switchboard to an iPad – and many media stations vividly bring content and history to life. Interactive elements invite children and adults to communicate, whether in a writing workshop, using a pneumatic delivery system or by taking a media competence test. In the reconstructed burial chamber of the ancient Egyptian craftsman Sennedjem, the relationship between writing and the cult of the dead becomes clear.

The museum belongs to the Post and Telecommunications Museum Foundation, which is supported by the German Post AG and Deutsche Telekom AG. Special exhibits and a wide variety of events and activities – from on-line tours to workshops for groups and individual visitors to data Tuesday – round out the offerings of the museum.

A special attraction are rides with the historical post coaches of the museum. In the summer, they take place in the countryside north of Nuremberg and in Fürth. During the Christkindlesmarkt, one can ride through the Christmas lights and decorations of the Old Town. A vintage bus from 1956 goes on tour in summer and can be rented, just like the museum's coaches and event rooms.

55 DB Railway Museum

Founded in 1882, the DB Museum is today the oldest railway museum in the world. Under the umbrella of the German Railway Foundation, the history of the German railway through all epochs is kept alive. Around 200,000 guests visit the main museum in Nuremberg as well as the two branches in Koblenz and Halle an der Saale each year.

The heart of the museum in Nuremberg tells the history of the railway in Germany within 6,600 m² of exhibition space. Various narrative strands report on social, cultural and economic developments and also provide prospects for the future. Crowd pleasers are the original vehicles. About 40 rail legends await visitors in two halls. In addition, there is 15,000 m² of open-air exhibition space with temporary exhibits and a play area for children.

The Modellarium displays more than 2,000 models, from historical vehicles built to a scale of 1:5 up to an engine in a miniature format of 1:700. The famous steam locomotive the Adler (Eagle) is revived as a digital model.

Younger guests should not miss the Kid's Trainland (KIBALA). It offers everything to make a child's heart leap for joy: Many hands-on stations and the KIBALA Express Train invite everyone to play and learn. The DB Museum also offers a varied program for families and children, for the culturally aware and for train enthusiasts.

66 Museum for Industrial Culture and School Museum

The enormous hall of a former screw factory during the 1920s now houses the Museum for Industrial Culture on almost 6,000 sqm of exhibition space. Affiliated with it are the Motorcycle Museum "Ardie, Mars & Co." and the School Museum with a historical classroom which conveys the atmosphere of school life and teaching in times gone by.

Here everything revolves around the history of the industrialization of Nuremberg from the 19th century to the structural changes of the present. The focus here is the life of the people: Along the "Museum Street" ensembles of objects make the past come to life. On one side of the street the steam engine house and a printer's workshop document working life in the industrial age. On the other side of the street various living rooms reflect everyday life outside the factory and office. In the "Technology Revue" or the "Talking Kitchen" exhibition objects turn into actors and visitors become explorers. In the extensive motorcycle collection the golden age of Nuremberg as a stronghold of bicycle manufacturing production comes alive.

To help you get to know the museum, regular entertaining themed tours and exciting demonstrations are on offer, for example, in the historical pencil workshop, but amusing family tours as well. At certain times children can participate in the fully functioning lead typesetting printing workshop or together with older children try out computer games from the past and the present to their hearts' content.

Twice a year, the learning lab „Technology Land - staunen@lernen® (be amazed and learn)“ with numerous experimentation stations opens its doors.

13 Medieval Dungeons

The medieval dungeons in the cellars of the Town Hall date back to the 14th century. Originally, bakers sold their wares here. When the Nuremberg citizens created their new town center with the main market in 1332, they converted the bakery into the Town Hall. The area around it was raised - the ground floor became the cellar and the former shops the prison cells. The dungeon was reserved primarily for prisoners awaiting trial and those condemned to death. The most famous inmate was probably the sculptor Veit Stoß, who was imprisoned for forging a promissory note. Cells, torture chamber, blacksmith's, prison kitchen and the room with the deep well convey a vivid picture of late medieval jurisdiction. The dungeons can only be visited as part of a tour. Individual tours for groups or school classes can be booked upon request. We do not recommend a visit for children under the age of 10.

78 The Faber-Castell Experience!

At its ancestral seat in Stein, the long-established company of Faber-Castell offers three exciting sightseeing options: The Faber-Castell castle, the wood-cased pencil production and the museum „Alte Mine“ (Pencil Lead Museum).

The starting point for the tours is the visitor center in the newly restored Art Nouveau industrial building, where an expansive sun terrace with a view of the castle invites you to linger.

On a tour of the Count von Faber-Castell castle, which has been extensively restored in recent years, you can experience the link between an industrial progressive spirit and traditional family values.

The centerpiece of the company, the production of colored pencils and black lead pencils, comes alive in a two-hour tour. Over 500,000 wood-cased pencils are produced here every day. Just how this works – from wooden board to finished pencil – is explained in a lively and fascinating fashion.

In the graphite-blackened original locations of the „Alte Mine“ museum, visitors gain an insight into the once complicated process of manufacturing lead pencils in the 19th to mid-20th centuries.

Visitors to „The Faber-Castell Experience“ can optionally book lunch at the Graf von Faber-Castell residence and receive attractive discounts at the new flagship store, where shopping on 200 square meters is itself experience.

94 Dinosaur Museum Altmühltal

Meet T. rex, Brachiosaurus & Co.

The Dinosaur Museum Altmühltal in Bavarian Denkendorf (between Munich and Nuremberg, on the Autobahn A9) is a fascinating place for families, school classes and everyone who is interested in the development of our planet and would like to learn about it first-hand. Here, you'll stroll along a circa 1.5-km-long path through both the forest and 400 million years of the history of the earth. You'll encounter more than 70 life-sized reproductions of dinosaurs and other animals from ancient times, some of which are so large they reach the treetops.

In the hall of the museum, an authentic skeleton of a Tyrannosaurus rex is on display: Although "Rocky" was almost 10 meters long, he wasn't finished growing and is therefore the only teenage T. rex found so far!

Other highlights of the museum are "Dracula" – perhaps the largest and heaviest flying dinosaur yet discovered – as well as an original fossil of the ancient bird Archaeopteryx.

In the Dinosaur Museum, knowledge is conveyed through active experience. You can try to be a paleontologist and uncover fossils, which you can take home as a souvenir. Hands-on stations show how large, fast or strong the dinosaurs were and allow you to compare them to yourself.

In this extraordinary, primeval surrounding every event – whether a conference, company party or product presentation – will become a real highlight that will inspire your guests. On 800 m² of flexibly divisible event space, there are no limits to creativity.

How to get there: A9 between Nuremberg and Munich, exit 59 Denkendorf, only 2 km from the autobahn. Daily bus connection from train station Ingolstadt.

Open: All year round

92 Cadolzburg Castle

– A highlight in the Nuremberg Metropolitan Region

A mighty castle – setting for the glorious history of a ruling family that went a long way: This is Cadolzburg, seat of the Hohenzollerns who from Franconia also ruled over Brandenburg and who later became Prussian kings and even German Emperors.

But how did the Hohenzollerns govern, sleep and fight 600 years ago? What did the Middle Ages smell and sound like? What was it like living in the castle? Find out about this and much more besides in the new “Hands-on-Castle-Experience” designed by the Bavarian Palace Department. Its main focus is on the Golden Age of Cadolzburg Castle in the 14th/15th centuries. On four floors of the Old Residence original objects, elaborate reproductions, installations and media stations document life in the castle. With the aid of a virtual reality headset visitors can experience a late medieval tournament “live” in the context of “Tournaments in the Late Middle Ages”.

Try it out for yourselves: at Cadolzburg Castle the Middle Ages come to life with exhibits to touch, listen to, smell and much more. You can expect something really special – it’s simply the CASTLE THAT’S GREAT FOR YOUNG AND OLD!

Museums in Fürth

A visit to museums in the "Cloverleaf" city of Fürth doesn't mean looking at old objects in display cases, but to experience history, discover new topics to explore and to dive into interesting new worlds. The best example for a modern museum presentation is the Ludwig Erhard Center: A one-of-a-kind exhibit, documentation, meeting and research center for German economic history and Ludwig Erhard. A new addition is the so-called treasure chamber, in which authentic pictures and objects from the private estate of this famous citizen of Fürth are on display.

The City Museum presents an impressive overview of the history and development of Fürth. In the Jewish Museum of Franconia, one can get a glimpse into the varied Jewish history of Fürth and Franconia. A Mikveh and an original historical Sukkah are two of the highlights.

A must for those who love contemporary art is the kunst galerie fürth. Four or five times a year, the municipal gallery introduces national and regional artists, integrating international positions on art.

Criminology, prevention and the history of the police in Fürth are in focus in the small, but fine crime museum, which is open Sundays or upon request.

From May to October 2022, the Museum of Women's Culture Regional-International features an exhibit that is interesting not only for women: "Technik#Weiblich#Logisch (technology - female - logical) - digital - gender-appropriate - sustainable". If you are interested in dialysis, you can find answers in the Dialysis Museum. Upon request, you can learn about blood cleansing from the ancient world until today. The Radio Museum is closed for renovation and the creation of a new exhibit until the end of 2024.

F2 Ludwig Erhard Center

The Ludwig Erhard Center (LEZ) - with his birth house and a striking new building located next to it - is a one-of-a-kind exhibit, documentation, meeting and research center for Ludwig Erhard and his concept of the social market economy.

Heart of the complex is a 1,400 m2 permanent exhibit, which presents history in an exciting and modern fashion, using original objects, reenactments and media stations. A tour of the museum begins in his birth house in the small rooms of the Erhards' former apartment, continues in the new building and ends there in an interactive digital room of the future. Based on the biography of Ludwig Erhard, the display weaves together several storylines: his personal and family history, contemporary history and economic trends from the end of the 19th century until today.

To commemorate the 125th birthday of Ludwig Erhard, a new exhibit area entitled LUDWIG ERHARD - ORIGINAL was opened at the beginning of 2022. It displays personal objects, photos and memorabilia of the first economic minister and later chancellor of the Federal Republic of Germany. The exhibit is the real treasure trove of the LEZ: Here, visitors can get to know Ludwig Erhard as a person. The objects were part of Erhard's personal estate, which was sold in spectacular circumstances in the 1990s. They have now made their convoluted way back to Fürth. His great-grandchildren have also lent objects to the exhibit.

The Museum Café Luise in the newly restored rooms of the former textile shop of the Erhard family is decorated in the ambience of the 1950s. The café is named after Erhard's wife Luise, who, like her husband, was an economist - but also loved to bake cakes.

F12 City Museum Fürth

The City Museum embarks on an interesting journey through the history of the cloverleaf city. On over 1,000 sqm it traces the development from a small market town to a modern city, from a town with many craftsmen to an industrial city. Three-dimensional objects, documents, maps, photos, media and "guess-the-scent" stations illustrate its dynamic history. A media guide with four guided tours for adults, children, in simple language and in English explains the history of the city in detail to interested individual visitors.

F5 Jewish Museum of Franconia, Fürth

Is ham kosher? Can women become rabbis? And what is actually a ritual bath? Visit the Jewish Museum of Franconia in Fürth and learn more about Jewish life in Franconia. From the Middle Ages up the 19th century Jewish communities existed in well over 300 locations. The museum itself is found in a formerly Jewish 17th century residence. Magnificent stucco ceilings, a sukkah and a ritual bath are unique evidence of this period. Precious ritual objects and impressive everyday objects testify to the rich traditions of Franconia's Jewish culture. The extension, opened in May 2018, offers plenty of space for temporary exhibitions, events and the Krautheim Study Library.

Reisen für Alle

Kooperationspartner

Tourism for All

The nationwide labelling system “Tourism for All” is based on extensive criteria to ensure high cross-sectoral quality standards. These have been developed jointly by associations of those affected and tourism associations.

“Tourism for All” is an information and evaluation system that enables guests to independently assess the suitability of the offer for their requirements.

Guests can thus check whether tourist offers can be used or personally experienced on the basis of reliable detailed information in the run-up to the trip and select and book the offers that are suitable for them.

Certification is therefore not about ensuring that all offers are completely barrier-free - it is much more important to have reliable information about the actually available offer.

This is because “ALL” travelers benefit from it, i.e. persons with disabilities, but also senior citizens, or families with buggies and luggage.

The Label

The “Information on Accessibility” label signals that detailed and verified information on accessibility is available for all groups of persons.

The “Accessibility Certified” label is based on “Accessibility Information” and means that the quality criteria for certain groups of people are partially or completely fulfilled. The logo “Accessibility Certified” is supplemented by pictograms. They indicate which needs are fulfilled for the relevant group of people.

Specimen Label

The offer is barrier-free for persons with impaired mobility, persons with visual impairment and persons with cognitive impairment as well as partially barrier-free for wheelchair users, persons with hearing impairment, deaf persons and blind persons.

The label “Accessibility Checked” has two quality classifications:

“Accessibility Checked: partially barrier-free”: The quality criteria are partially fulfilled for the group of persons shown, i.e. the offer is partially barrier-free for wheelchair users. The “i” in the pictogram indicates that one should read more carefully as to whether the offer meets one’s own requirements.

“Accessibility Checked: barrier-free”: The quality criteria are fulfilled for the group of people shown, i.e. the offer is barrier-free for wheelchair users.

19 Historical Rock-Cut Cellars

An extensive labyrinth of subterranean passageways and cellar vaults has existed in the bedrock of castle hill for centuries – the Historical Rock-Cut Cellars. As early as 1380 Nuremberg's traditional beer was stored in the subterranean cellars, sometimes comprising four levels, that had been cut into the typical Nuremberg sandstone. Later they were used to store food supplies. During World War II the historical underground vaults served as air raid shelters. Follow us into the Nuremberg rock-cut cellars, a fascinating labyrinth made up of a myriad tunnels and cellars, which were hewn out of the rock face many centuries ago. During a tour, you can discover this unique subterranean cellar system and learn interesting facts about the laws and regulations in the cellars. You will also learn something about the various uses of these cellars over the last 700 years and the craft of brewing beer in the Altstadtthof brewpub.

16 Nuremberg's Underground – Great Down Under

Art Bunker - Surviving the War

Nuremberg was second only to Dresden in the amount of destruction seen in World War II. Despite that, a large part of Nuremberg's art treasures survived the war in a one-of-a-kind art bunker. After the war, an almost medieval Old Town was rebuilt from the ruins. How was protection of art and reconstruction a success?

Atomic Bunker - Surviving World War III

Only 5 minutes to make it to the bunker. There, there is enough air, water and light for 14 days. A place to lie for 8 hours, a place to sit for 16 – together with 2,000 other occupants of the bunker. What awaits after two weeks? An exit into a destroyed and radioactive world. In the original furnished atomic bunker, topics are the political crises during the Cold War, technology in the bunker and the organization of daily life there.

Please note that the temperature in Nuremberg's underground is between 8° and 12° C year-round. We also recommend that you wear solid, non-slip footwear when taking part in a tour.

63 Nuremberg Zoo

In front of an impressive backdrop of sandstone cliffs roam tigers, lions and polar bears. Dolphins and sealions swim together in an outdoor water landscape. The manatee house with its tropical plants, floating manatees and brightly colored butterflies brings the feel of the rainforest to Nuremberg.

With its 65 hectares, the Nuremberg Zoo is one of the largest zoological gardens in Europe. The extensive woodland park features craggy rock formations, century-old trees and idyllic meadows and ponds. Within this landscape one can observe more than 300 different types of native and exotic animal species: From gorillas to lynxes, giraffes to beavers, penguins to ibexes.

At the Jako-O playground, kids can go wild on the slides, swings and other play equipment. Many picnic areas with benches and tables are distributed throughout the zoo as well as a restaurant and several bistros. And if you don't want to walk all the way through the zoo, the narrow-gauge train "Little Eagle" will bring you to and from the giraffe enclosure to the JAKO-O children's zoo.

Protection endangered species in Germany and South America

Today, the protection of endangered species and nature is one of the most urgent tasks facing zoos. The Nuremberg Zoo therefore cooperates with partners in Germany and around the world to protect threatened animals. One important part of this effort is Yaqu Pacha, an organization based at the Nuremberg Zoo with the goal of protecting the aquatic mammals of South America and their habitats.

10 Church of Our Lady (Rom. Cath.)

The three-aisled Church of Our Lady was the first Gothic hall church in Franconia and is among the three most important churches in Nuremberg. Erected in 1355-58 by Emperor Charles IV, the imperial regalia were displayed to the public in 1361. The "Männleinlaufen" (mechanical clock and glockenspiel, every day at noon) recalls the proclamation of the Golden Bull of 1356: seven Electors pay homage to Emperor Karl IV sitting on his throne.

Significant artworks in the Church of Lady are the three oldest stained glass paintings in Nuremberg from the Emperors Window donated by Charles IV, the Tucher altarpiece, created by an unknown master ca. 1445 and the most important example of panel painting before Albrecht Dürer as well as two memorial plaques by the famous Nuremberg sculptor Adam Kraft and panel paintings by Michael Wolgemut.

The Nuremberg Christkindlesmarkt is opened from the balcony.

7 St. Lawrence Church (Prot. Luth.)

Construction began about 1250. Originally built as a three-aisled basilica in the high Gothic style; later extended with an imposing late Gothic hall choir (1439 – 1477).

Visitors are received at the magnificent west facade with a splendid portal richly decorated with statuary and a rose window made of stone (mid-14th c.). The two towers rise to heights of 80 and 81 meters. Important works of art inside are the Annunciation by Veit Stoß (1518), the tabernacle by Adam Kraft (1496) as well as numerous medieval altars, memorial plaques and stained glass paintings.

The three-part Laurentius Organ is one of the largest organs in the world. More than 12,000 pipes and 165 registers make church services and organ concerts in the St. Lawrence Church a unique experience. Equally resounding is the ringing of the bells. The oldest of the 16 bells dates back to the 14th century.

20 St. Sebald Church (Prot. Luth.)

Construction began on St. Sebald Church, a Late Romanesque pillared basilica with two choirs, in 1230/40. By 1379 the original side aisles had been widened, the towers raised in the High Gothic style and the Late Gothic hall choir built.

Inside the church stands the reliquary shrine (ca. 1397) in the tomb cast in bronze by Peter Vischer and his sons (1508 – 1519). The bones of Nuremberg's Catholic patron saint Sebaldus are presumed to rest in the silver embossed "casket". The wealth of the city of Nuremberg and its patrician families is reflected in numerous figures and memorial plaques by the woodcarver and sculptor Veit Stoß as well as the stained glass windows by Veit Hirsvogel, made according to designs by Albrecht Dürer and Hans Süß.

Sights in Fürth

Just arrived from Nuremberg to Fürth? Welcome to “Cloverleaf City”. Discover our idyllic Old Town. Here you’ll find a unique mix of pubs and restaurants, creative workshops and fresh new shops with individual and sustainable products. Feast your eyes on the many classic buildings. Stroll through the streets and lanes and experience a typical relaxed Franconian atmosphere. Enjoy a sparkling drink at Fürth’s Market and a cappuccino in one of our small and cozy cafés. Don’t leave Fürth without having a look at the monumental classic City Hall with its 55-meter-high tower reminding you of the Palazzo Vecchio in Florence, the neo-Baroque City Theater or the gorgeous promenade in the heart of town.

It’s also great to discover our lively art and culture scene.
Come and enjoy!

F1 Town Hall of Fürth

The monumental building was constructed 1840 – 1850 from the plans of Friedrich and Eduard Bürklein in the Neoclassical style of the famous architect Friedrich von Gartner. The 55-meter high tower, the landmark of the city, is inspired by the Palazzo Vecchio in Florence. The industrial town grew so quickly that an extension had to be added just 50 years later. The two staircases and the hall are a “must-see”.

How to get there: U1 Rathaus Fürth

Open: Mon-Fri 8 am – 4 pm

Tours through the Town Hall and to the tower on request at Tourist Information Office Fürth

Königstraße 88 | 90762 Fürth

F7 St. Michael's Church

The Michaelskirche is the oldest edifice in Fürth. The beginnings of this fortified church date back to 1100. As befitted the erstwhile small market town, St. Michael is only a simple, relatively unadorned village church. The tower with the west portal, the choir and the south entrance are from the Gothic period. The interior is 19th c. Neo-Gothic.

Summer daily 9 am – 6 pm

F8 Market Square “Green Market”

As Fürth was almost totally destroyed in the Thirty Years' War, the old houses at the Grüner Markt date from the second half of the 17th and the 18th c.

An attraction at the Grüner Markt is the Jugglers Fountain designed by Harro Frey in 2004 with two groups of figures in various poses.

How to get there: U1 Rathaus Fürth

Marktplatz | 90762 Fürth

F6 Gustavstraße

In the past Gustavstraße was one of the most important trade routes. Nowadays it is the heart of the pub scene and a popular meeting point, especially in the evening.

Particularly attractive is the Baroque sandstone building of the Grüner Baum Inn, where the Swedish king Gustav Adolf is said to have stayed overnight in 1632. Anyway, it is after him that the street is named.

F15 Hornschuchpromenade and Königswarterstraße

These two boulevards from the Wilhemine era (period of rapid industrial growth after unification in 1871) are among the most beautiful in Fürth.

From 1883 to 1904 grand houses with elaborate sandstone decoration reflecting the social standing of the upper classes were constructed between Luisenstraße and Jakobinenstraße. Even the spacious promenade with mature trees in the middle is something special. The Ludwig railway line once passed along this central green strip. People were not apprehensive about the noise, but were instead proud of the modern technology directly at their front doors.

How to get there: U1 Jakobinenstraße

Hornschuchpromenade | 90762 Fürth

F17 Fürth City Park

The City Park is the green lung of the city and is an oasis for taking a leisurely stroll to unwind.

During a walk through the monumental gardens, designed by Hans Schiller in 1951 on the occasion of the garden show “Green and Blossom”, you can discover along with the rose garden, an open air theater, two idyllic ponds, the Stadtpark Café and much more.

F10 Old Jewish Cemetery

This is where the Jewish community buried its dead from 1607 to 1906. The graves were created for eternity and these last resting places must not be disturbed. Despite acts of desecration during the Nazi period, the cemetery, which covers 20,000 sqm and once stood on the edge of town, is to this day one of the most impressive stone testimonies to Jewish life in Fürth.

How to get there: U1 Stadthalle

F21 Schloss Burgfarnbach

The Neoclassical residence in Burgfarnbach was erected between 1830 and 1834 by the Royal Bavarian Building Inspector Leonhard Schmidtner, replacing the old, dilapidated moated castle.

As it had been built for the families of two counts, Graf Ludwig and Graf Friedrich Pückler-Limburg, it was very long at 70 meters and was one of the largest Neoclassical buildings in southern Germany.

The residence belongs to the city of Fürth and is used today as an archive and library.

Although the palace itself is currently closed, a walk through the spacious park is worth a visit. It was originally created as a Baroque garden and then reshaped into an English landscape park. The Museum of Women's Culture Regional-International (p. 47) is currently housed in the former stables of the palace.

F23 Freemasons' lodge house

The prominent historicist building of the Fürth Masonic lodge was constructed in 1890/91 by Nuremberg architect Leonhard Bürger, embodying the principle tenets of Freemasonry. The cube-shaped body of the building is abundantly decorated with Masonic symbols. On top of the gable, two female figures represent the lodge's name "Truth and Friendship". The renovated hall is one of the finest ballrooms in Fürth.

Walking Tours on Your Own

Walk through the Old Town

Begin your tour at one of the three most important churches in the Old Town of Nuremberg, 7 St. Lorenz (p. 60). The church features a magnificent portal; in the interior await important artworks from Veit Stoß (The Annunciation) or Adam Kraft, as well as one of the largest pipe organs in the world. The new newly opened 7 Bavarian Bible Museum (p. 34) offers fascinating insights about the Bible from a variety of perspectives.

Via the Kaiserstraße and the Karlsbrücke, which was erected in 1486, you'll find the Trödelmarkt, a small island in the middle of the Pegnitz River, with a lovingly restored ensemble of buildings. The 25 Bratwurst Museum (p. 34) is worth a stop here. Cross the 24 Henkersteg (p. 64) – Hangman's Bridge – from which the executioner once reached his isolated home above the river and which today houses the 24 Executioner's House Museum (p. 37) and you can walk along the Pegnitz to the Maxbrücke (Photo Spot). From here, you have a wonderful view of the 24 Weinstadel (p. 66), and, on the other side of the bridge, the 23 Kettensteg (p. 64), next on our walk. This is considered the oldest surviving metal suspension bridge in continental Europe and leads directly to the 22 Weißenbergasse (p. 66), whose circa 20 historical houses are mainly constructed of half-timbering. At the end of the lane, past the church of 20 St. Sebald (p. 60), the oldest parish church in Nuremberg, the way leads up the hill along the Bergstraße. First, you'll encounter the 19 Historical Rock Cut Cellars (p. 53, Tip: Try the Nuremberg Rotbeer) and then the 18 Albrecht Dürer House (p. 19), the former home and workplace of this famous artist. Over the 17 Tiergärtnerortplatz (p. 66), which is a favorite place to meet for both locals and guests – especially on warm summer evenings, the route leads up to hill to the symbol of the city, the 15 Imperial Castle (p. 16). The climb is worth it, not only because of the Imperial Castle Museum (p. 18), but also for the fantastic view over the Old Town (Photo Spot!). Passing the Sinwellturm, you can descend via the Burgstraße to the 13 Old City Hall (p. 63) with its 13 Medieval Dungeons (p. 36). Via the Waaggasse, you'll arrive at the newly-designed Augustinerhof (Photo Spot!), with the 12 Deutsches Museum - Museum of the Future (p. 22), opened in 2021. The Tuchgasse connects the area with the 11 Main Market Square and the Beautiful Fountain (p. 64). Don't forget to turn the golden ring and make a wish! On the opposite side of the square, you'll find the 10 Church of Our Lady (p. 59). Each day at 12 noon, the Männleinlaufen – a depiction of the seven electors who turn past Emperor Charles IV as a reminder of the Golden Bull he issued here in 1356 – takes place on its west gable. On the Main Market Square, the heart of the city, a variety of cultural events take place (tourismus.nuernberg.de/events) and, during Advent, the famous Nuremberg Christkindlesmarkt (www.christkindlesmarkt.de).

Our tour of the Nuremberg Old Town ends on the Museumsbrücke, with a view of the 9 Hospital of the Holy Spirit (p. 66).

Art, Culture and Master Traders

The tour starts with a visit to the 3 Neues Museum - State Museum of Art and Design (p. 21). Painting, sculpture, photography, video art and various installations provide insights into modern art since the 1960s. After a short coffee break, walk past the 27 concrete pillars of the 33 Way of Human Rights (p. 65) to the 32 Germanisches Nationalmuseum (p. 20), the largest museum of cultural history in the German-speaking world. The museum houses important art and cultural treasures from prehistory and early history to the present day, including masterpieces by Albrecht Dürer, Lucas Cranach and Veit Stoß, as well as the Behaim globe and the precious cover of the Codex Aureus.

Along the Kornmarkt and the Dr.-Kurt-Schumacher-Straße you reach the 27 Marriage Merry-Go-Round (p. 64) after a few minutes. Surrounding the dancing Meistersinger of Nuremberg, Hans Sachs, the figural fountain displays married life in six scenes - from the first stages of infatuation through to death. Sachs's poem "Bitter-Sweet Married Life" served as a model.

Along the city wall and over the 23 Chained Suspension Bridge (p. 64), the oldest surviving iron chained suspension bridge in continental Europe, the route leads directly to the lively castle district. You can stroll, completely relaxed, past historical buildings, half-timbered houses and small cafés, browsing to your heart's content, shopping and finding all sorts of specialties at the Nuremberg master traders (nuernberger-meisterhaendler.de).

The Different Nuremberg

Tip: Rent a VAG bike (www.vagrad.de) and explore the city.

All those who like to stroll along the market stalls should make a short detour to the weekly market on the main market square before starting the tour. The colorful market stalls are open from Monday to Saturday (7 am - 8 pm) and offer products from the region and Knoblauchsland (Garlic Land), one of the largest contiguous market gardening areas of its kind just outside Nuremberg.

The subway takes you within a few minutes from the “Lorenzkirche” station to “Gostenhof”, the trendy district of Nuremberg (www.in-goho.de).

Along the Fürther Straße there are numerous stores, second-hand shops, boutiques and craftsmen’s shops, but on the side streets there are also many small treasures as well as Nuremberg’s only unpacked store where food, hygiene articles and much more are offered without packaging (don’t forget your own containers!).

If you’re lucky enough to end up there on just the right day you can enjoy the popular back courtyard markets - at doors with colorful balloons it’s worth taking a look “behind the scenes”.

If you need a break in between, you’ll be in good hands in one of the small cafés, and numerous bistros offer a large selection for vegetarians and vegans. At the end of the day you can enjoy a locally brewed pale beer or the typical Nuremberg red beer in one of the many pubs.

It is also worth visiting “the MUZ” (www.musikzentrale.com), the trendy network scene for musicians and music lovers in Greater Nuremberg, which promotes young artists of all musical genres and offers a stage for alternating events.

Tip: Street art enthusiasts should take a look in the back courtyard!

Obligation to the Past

As the City of the Nazi Party Rallies, the City of the Racial Laws and the city in which the trials against the main perpetrators of the National Socialist regime took place, Nuremberg has been facing up to the task of coming to terms with the past for many decades and at the same time is shaping its present and future as the "City of Peace and Human Rights".

The tour begins with a visit to the 60 Interim Exhibit "Nuremberg - Site of the Party Rallies. Staging, Experience and Violence" in the large exhibit hall of the Documentation Center (p. 24). The presentation illustrates in compact form the history of the Nazi Party Rallies and the grounds. The reopening of the Documentation Center Nazi Party Rally Grounds with a new permanent exhibit is planned for 2024.

Afterwards, a tour of the former Nazi Party Rally Grounds is recommended. 23 large panels at the historic site provide information about the buildings, the propaganda staging of the National Socialists and how the site is used today. The individual tour lasts about one and a half hours, alternatively guided tours on foot or by bus (p. 25) are offered. Afterwards it is worth taking a short break at the 61 Dutzendteich Public Park (p. 67).

The 76 Memorium Nuremberg Trials (p. 26) can be reached by the bus and subway. The "Memorium Nuremberg Trials" in Courtroom 600 - the scene of the trials of the main war criminals from 1945 to 1949 - is an information and documentation center at the original site. It illuminates the prehistory, the course and aftermath of the Nuremberg Trials up to the International Criminal Court in The Hague.

At the end of the day, it is worthwhile taking a stroll through the 33 Way of Human Rights (p. 65) back in the Old Town. The walkthrough artwork of the Israeli artist Dani Karavan consists of 27 white concrete pillars, each inscribed with an article of the General Declaration of Human Rights in German and in a foreign language, as well as a cyprus oak, two ground plaques and an archway.

NUREMBERG NEIGHBORHOODS AND YOU.

The Old Town in Nuremberg with its castle and half-timbered houses is well known, but there are some corners in the city that are worth a second look! Small shops, hip bars, galleries and culinary highlights can be found hidden in the lanes of the Old Town – and there are plenty of places to take a photo!

Every house and person who lived and lives there has a story which can be discovered on location with the use of the web app, your digital neighborhood guide. If this has made you curious, you can find your first inspirations at nuernberg.travel/stadtquartiere.

Here's the web app:

WINE MARKET

The Wine Market captivates with its unique flair, which can be found nowhere else in Nuremberg. What is special are the many individual and family-owned stores and workshops, which stand for quality and expertise. The spectrum ranges from handmade fashion and sophisticated art to culinary specialties of all kinds.

The Wine Market also has something to offer visually: To the east, the impressive view of St. Sebald's Church; to the west the view into the Weißgerbergasse with its picturesque half-timbered houses. The Wine Market is framed by these scenes and offers a wide-open space in which to stroll and relax. Ever since the street has been designated a pedestrian zone, one has even more peace and quiet. The outdoor tables of the restaurants and the lovingly planted raised beds create an almost Mediterranean atmosphere. Young and old, guests and locals, residents and tourists take a break on the new wooden seating and fill the square with the pleasant hum of conversation.

Our Favorites in the Wine Market

The Weißgerbergasse is our absolute favorite lane in Nuremberg. We often find ourselves taking a roundabout way through town just to walk past its colorful, narrow half-timbered houses. The place where the street enters the Wine Market is the perfect spot to soak up both the flair of the square and the visual beauty of the Weißgerbergasse. As a highlight, you have a view of the dominating towers of St. Sebald.

Photo Spots

You could spend the whole day taking great pictures at the Wine Market. It is particularly atmospheric in the early morning and evening. Evenings, when the warm light begins to shine through the lanes and the outdoor tables at the bars and restaurants start to fill, you have the best conditions for street photography. Mornings, when the first light comes round the corner and the Wine Market begins to wake into life, are also great times to take fantastic shots.

AROUND THE AUGUSTINERHOF

In the middle of the heart of the Old Town, a brand-new quarter has been created with the construction of the Augustinerhof. Set in the best location between the Main Market Square and the Trödelmarkt, the area fits surprisingly well into its environment, while distinguishing itself with its subtle modern design. Extremely central, yet a bit off the beaten path and removed from the bustle of the city, this neighborhood feels like its own little world.

More than three years passed from the laying of the cornerstone to the opening of the compound. Today, within almost 5,200 m² of space, a building complex houses retail, restaurants, a hotel and a museum. In the center runs a wide pedestrian passage, which leads to the south side of the building and the Pegnitz River – one of the few places in the city where you can sit on the banks of the river. The fact that the sun hits the perfect angle in this space – until late in the evening – makes it even more attractive.

Directly bordering on the Augustinerhof complex is the Trödelmarkt with its traditional charm. In the characteristic and narrow row of buildings, cafes and family-owned shops stand side-by-side. The Karlsbrücke and the picturesque Henkersteg link this enchanting strip of island in the Pegnitz with the shore.

Our Favorites around the Augustinerhof

Technically, our favorite place is not in the quarter, but offers a wonderful view of it: Die Maxbrücke. Quaint views in every direction set our hearts beating faster – even if we have been here a million times. The Kettensteg on the left side, the Henkersteg and parts of the Trödelmarkt on the right, the Pegnitz below – what more could you want? That's reason enough to include the Maxbrücke again and again in a stroll through the city and pull out your phone for just one more photo.

An absolute must for every photographer is to take a picture of the Henkersteg from the Maxbrücke. It is most likely the most beautiful photo spot that Nuremberg has to offer. The entire Augustinerhof area is also a solid recommendation for photos! Its modern architecture offers great images from many different angles.

With the Henkersteg, its picturesque form mirrored in the water, the dreamy Trödelmarkt full of lovingly decorated shops and the modern façade of the Augustinerhof, this quarter is the perfect contrast between old and new.

ST. JAMES'S QUARTER

St. James's Quarter is very traditional, but unfortunately often neglected.

Located directly on the edge of the city center, it is sometimes dismissed as part of the new and not the old. This doesn't do it justice: St. James's Quarter offers both historical and modern highlights with their own individual charm. In addition to the Weißer Turm (part of the former city wall), the Marriage Carousel honoring the Nuremberg poet Hans Sachs and the churches of St. Elisabeth and St. James, there are many cultural highlights, especially in gastronomy and retail.

The stores, restaurants and other businesses in this neighborhood have often been here for generations. They give this area its special feel and sometimes hide their real treasures.

Our Favorites in St. James's Quarter

It's not difficult to find a favorite place here – there are so many pretty areas. One of our candidates for the most beautiful location is the space between the churches of St. Elisabeth and St. James, where you can see the highlights of this neighborhood at a glance. In one direction is one of the remaining defensive towers in the last city wall; in the other, Weißer Turm, a bastion from the second-to-last wall. This is the perfect place to start a tour of St. James's Quarter.

Surprisingly, many locals from Nuremberg don't know the golden pig. It is located on the roof of the Bratwurstküche and is a perfect photo motif. A large zoom or a long focal length is recommended. At certain times of the day, you can even incorporate the sun into the picture.

CRAFTSMEN'S COURTYARD

The Craftsmen's Courtyard is truly a special place. Its individual concept makes it unique – not only within the city of Nuremberg. The name says everything: Surrounded by the historical city wall, the Craftsmen's Courtyard houses traditional and modern craft workshops, focused on typical Nuremberg products. As soon as you set foot in this space, you are sheltered by the massive old gates of the city and can feel the magic of the Craftsmen's Courtyard.

The tiny half-timbered houses which stretch along the narrow lanes don't just look beautiful, but also tell a story. Many trades which once almost died out have been brought back to life here. The former ward in the city wall became a new quarter in 1971, which preserves the traditional in a modern form.

Our Favorites in the Craftsmen's Courtyard

It's difficult to choose just one favorite place in the Craftsmen's Courtyard. The entire courtyard could be a favorite place and should be a stop on a tour of the city. If we would have to decide, it would probably be the large entry gate which leads to the Königstraße.

You should bring one thing with you to take great photos in the Craftsmen's Courtyard: Time!

The courtyard offers countless subjects to photograph, and these are especially attractive when the little lanes are filled with movement from visitors. It's best to use a longer shutter speed of ca. 1/10 sec. to capture this movement. For the Craftsmen's Courtyard I recommend a whole range of lenses: From an ultra wide-range to 70mm.

Historical Grilled Sausage Restau- rant "Zum Gulden Stern"

The famous Historical Grilled
Sausage Restaurant "Zum Gulden Stern" anno 1419 is the oldest grilled sausage restaurant in the world. It gives you an insight into the late Middle Ages during the time of Albrecht Dürer, who must certainly have once been a guest here.
The house at Zirkelschmiedsgasse 26 was built in 1380 and first documented in 1419, in a district whose buildings formed the nucleus of the historic Old Town of Nuremberg. The premises, consisting of two buildings, survived all the wars and it is the oldest tavern still standing on the same location in Nuremberg. In the historical grilled sausage restaurant you will find many treats. The specialty of the house is, however, the Original Nuremberg "Röstla"®. Martin Hilleprandt, the former owner of the historical grilled sausage restaurant, registered this trademark in 2013 to protect the Nuremberg grilled sausage. In addition, soups made of potatoes, soup greens, bones and beef are freshly cooked and the potato salad freshly prepared daily in the historical grilled sausage restaurant.

Anyone who wasn't here wasn't in Nuremberg!

Souvenirs from Nuremberg

Shopping on Saturday in the delicatessen department at Karstadt. For many in Nuremberg, this ritual starts a deluxe weekend: Strolling through town, enjoying brunch or drinking a fine glass of wine. Others love to visit the many small specialty shops or to chat with the local vendors at the farmer's market on the Main Market Square. Near the market you'll find a range of stores in which you can buy traditional Nuremberg souvenirs such as Christmas decorations and gingerbread. Peppy and unusual gifts can also be found at Tourist Information on the square.

Gourmets and connoisseurs search through the food specialty shops and traditional gingerbread bakers or buy a traditionally brewed beer from the Hausbrauerei Altstadt'hof or a handmade Nuremberg bratwurst, which can be purchased in different varieties in cans to take home as a gift.

You will, of course, find the entire assortment of the trademark in the shop, known far beyond the boundaries of the city. In the adjoining gingerbread café with a view of the market, you can also enjoy freshly baked specialties and other pastry dishes as well as warm and cold drinks in-house.
